SEARCH FOR OCCUPANTS—Bystanders help rescue workers search for 2 passengers Leonard Stewart said were with him when he crashed his van 9:40 p.m. Thursday on W. High St., just south of the city limits and the Route 23 overpass. However, the passengers were not in the van but were arrested later walking back to town from the Sturm and Dillard Co.

Police, Sheriff Claim Man Crashes Van While Fleeing

Two adults and a juvenile face a variety of charges stemming from the assault of a night watchman at the Sturm and Dillard Co., and a fourth man is in serious condition at Grant Hospital, Columbus, after crashing his van apparently while fleeing the area.

Leonard Stewart, 36, Columbus, is currently in the Columbus hospital undergoing treatment for badly damaged legs and multiple cuts and abrasions he suffered when he was pinned under the wreckage of his van on W. High St., just south of the city limits and the Route 23 overpass.

Circleville Police Sgt. Wes Barton, who investigated the accident, said Stewart apparently lost control of the vehicle and was ejected as it rolled over one time.

Stewart was apparently fleeing the Sturm and Dillard Co. lot on Island Rd., according to Pickaway County Sheriff Dwight Radcliff, whose deputies arrested the two Columbus men and 17-year-old juvenile following an altercation there prior to the accident.

Sheriff Radcliff said the van, apparently driven by Stewart, entered the company driveway, knocking down a section of cable that was stretched to prevent entry.

While the van was attempting to turn around, it struck a corner of the main office building. Stewart apparently stopped to check the damage and the three passengers exited from the vehicle.

The commotion brought night watchman Julius Hulse, 69, from the building and Stewart apparently sped away thinking the passengers were back inside the vehicle.

He apparently drove out the main gate, again knocking down a section of cable.

The three passengers apparently jumped Hulse, Sheriff Radcliff said. The man was treated at Berger Hospital's emergency room for minor injuries.

Deputies, helping Sgt. Barton with the accident investigation, were searching for the passengers Stewart claimed were with him when the trio arrived, on foot, at the scene.

Deputies J. Philip Brown and Jim Fite charged Robert A. Noland and David H. LeMaster, both of Columbus, with intoxication, and the juvenile with being unruly, at the scene.

However, they are expected to be charged later today with felonious assault, criminal damaging, and criminal trespassing, Sheriff Radcliff said.

The accident, which occurred about 9:40 p.m., resulted when Stewart apparently lost control of the van and went left of center in the sweeping right curve of the road.

The rear of the vehicle struck the left guardrail and slid away, causing the front to strike the guardrail, Sgt. Barton said.

After impact, the van made one complete revolution before coming to rest on its side, pinning Stewart under the vehicle.

A wrecker was called to lift the heavy truck from Stewart, who was given emergency care at Berger Hospital before being transferred to Grant Hospital.

Stewart is allegedly wanted by Franklin County Sheriff's Deputies on a warrant for receiving and concealing stolen property, Sheriff Radcliff said.

Kissinger, Israelis Study Pact

JERUSALEM (AP) — Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger kicked off his new Mideast peace shuttle today with nearly five hours of talks in Jerusalem, and the Israelis reported progress was made. He then flew by helicopter to Ben-Gurion airport and boarded his Air Force jet for Alexandria, Egypt, and talks with President Anwar Sadat.

Kissinger said he would return to Jerusalem Saturday night after a stopover in Damascus "to continue the talks with an attitude of hope."

Israeli Foreign Minister Yigal Allon reported "some progress in clarifying certain important points, which makes me more hopeful." Kissinger and Allon declined to predict, however, whether the shuttle would end in success.

Speaking to newsmen, the two leaders said the talks were friendly, and indicated the rift in U.S.-Israeli relations caused by the failure of Kissinger's shuttle last March was over.

Shortly before dawn, several hundred demonstrators drove by Kissinger's hotel, shouting anti-American slogans through loud-speakers. Police drove them away.

As Kissinger met with the Israeli negotiating team, hundreds of right-wing demonstrators opposed to the expected Israeli-Egyptian accord in Sinai blocked traffic in Tel Aviv and fired guns into the air until the police dispersed them.

Meanwhile, in Damascus, Syria and Jordan, the two Arab states lagging behind Egypt in U.S. sponsored peace negotiations with Israel, formed a political command to "take joint decisions on war and peace."

The new alliance was disclosed in a joint communique following five days of talks between King Hussein of Jordan and Syrian President Hafez Assad.

The communique said the two leaders would coordinate policy and "carry out the recommendations and proposals made by a high ministerial committee" formed during Assad's visit to Jordan last month.

U.S., Russia Propose Ban On Future 'Weather Wars'

GENEVA, Switzerland (AP) — The United States and the Soviet Union are proposing a ban on an undeveloped method of warfare that has caused some public anxiety but appears to offer no threat to the world for years to come.

It is called "environmental modification techniques," which means manipulation of the structure of the earth, plant life, air and outer space to cause earthquakes, floods and changes in the weather, climate, ocean currents and other ecological factors.

The subject was first raised by former President Richard M. Nixon and Soviet leader Leonid I. Brezhnev at their July 1974 meeting. They decided experts from their governments should meet for a close look at the matter.

The United Nations General Assembly picked up the idea and referred it to the Geneva Disarmament Conference. Brezhnev and President Ford discussed it again last Nov. 23 in Vladivostok.

On Thursday, the American and Soviet cochairmen of the disarmament conference, Joseph Martin Jr. and Alexei Roshchin, presented a joint draft convention to ban environmental warfare.

Proposed as a basis for negotiations and likely to be changed in many ways, the draft contains no prohibition against development of environment-changing techniques for either military or civilian purposes. Only

Syria has expressed reservations about Egypt's willingness to negotiate a second stage disengagement agreement with Israel in the Sinai Desert.

Assad has enlisted the cooperation of Hussein in an obvious effort to exert pressure on Cairo not to go too far in making unilateral deals with Israel.

Syria and Jordan both feel Israeli withdrawals on the Sinai front should be linked to similar disengagement agreements in the occupied Golan Heights and the west bank of the Jordan River.

Kissinger's step-by-step approach is aimed at securing a Sinai pact first, followed by the Golan Heights and then the west bank.

their "hostile use" against another country would be banned.

Roshchin told a news conference that the Soviet government would continue to develop such methods for peaceful purposes. Martin said a ban on research and development would be ineffective.

Both told the news conference the treaty would ban the defoliation of woods and fields which the United States employed extensively in Vietnam. But they cited no other specific techniques that present a potential threat to peace.

Weather experts generally agree that the world's climate can be changed only by such drastic means as changing ocean currents or melting the polar ice caps. These would require supplies of energy that no one can reliably estimate and that probably do not even exist today.

Ex-State Senator Named To Panel

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Robert J. Corts, a former state senator, was appointed Thursday by the governor as a member of the Elected Official and Judicial Compensation Review Commission.

Corts, 55, of Elyria succeeds John T. Loehnert.

Corts has been a special counsel and assistant attorney general, city solicitor of Sheffield and LeGrange and assistant city solicitor of Elyria.

Kent State Jury Deliberating Under Guard

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP) — Jurors began deliberations today in the civil damages trial stemming from the 1970 Kent State University shootings.

The jury was directed to retire and begin its decision-making 2 two hours and 20 minutes after U.S. District Court Judge Don J. Young began his instructions.

The 76 pages of the judge's definition of the issues and explanation of the law went into the jury room with the panel. Young said the jury could read it, write in it or "throw it out the window."

He told them the first action should be to elect a foreman and that from then on, their schedule was up to them.

The central elements the judge said the jury would have to decide are whether the defendants ordered a peaceable rally dispersed, whether they exceeded their authority under the law, and whether the Ohio National Guard crowd control procedures led inevitably to use of lethal force when it wasn't necessary.

Young said the shootings victims had claimed they were injured recklessly and deprived of their rights to life, liberty and due process of law. He said they also claimed the defendants went beyond their legal authority and directly caused the plaintiffs' injuries.

He said the defense presentation included the claim that state officials were immune from damage suits when acting for the government, that the 29 defendants had acted in self-defense, and that the actions of the shooting victims contributed to their own injuries.

"Sympathy has no place in the trial of a law suit," Young told the panel of six men and six women. He said the jurors indicated to him that after working until this evening, they would meet again through Saturday until evening but probably not on Sunday.

A defense attorney described Young's jury instruction as "straight down the middle," and one of the lawyers representing the shooting victims called it "a fair charge."

The judge ordered round-the-clock protection for the jury after one member was assaulted and threatened.

Young refused to provide details of the assault but said in an interview later he meant the juror was physically abused.

Reports conflicted, but court sources agreed, the juror assaulted was one of the men on the panel and that he had received the threat in a face-to-face confrontation.

The sources said the juror was told either he would be killed, his family harmed or his house blown up if he did not vote a certain way. The sources would not reveal which way.

No one would further identify the juror but none of the panel members showed signs of physical abuse. The sources said they did not know whether

Ohio State Fair Attendance Tops 157,000 1st Day

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The wife of Gov. James A. Rhodes opened the gate, 15-year-old twins, a 12-year-old boy, the governor and his family went next and 157,612 followed them into the Ohio State Fair on Thursday, the first day of the 12-day event.

The total attendance compares to an opening day record of 180,549 in 1974 and 165,759 in 1973.

The record for one-day attendance is 260,843 and 2,223,589 went to the 1973 state fair to set a record for its run as the highest attendance.

Gov. James A. Rhodes gave the scissors to his wife, Helen, to cut the ribbon that opens the Ohio State Fair each year.

Mrs. Rhodes was slightly stymied as she got ready. She whispered to her husband that she was uncertain whether to "cut up or cut down." But Rhodes, a veteran of exposition openings, advised her: "Just cut straight across."

At the ceremony, Rhodes said, "I don't know of a finer outlet than to bring your family to the Ohio State Fair."

Rhodes surprised three boys who had camped outside the fairgrounds since July 31 in order to be the first admitted to the 1975 exposition. He gave each of them $50 and traditional free ride tickets and large stuffed toys to 15-year-old twins Harry and Larry Arter and James Jamison, 12, all of Columbus.

Fair Manager John Evans presented Ray Hammack, a Columbus science teacher, with a check for $150 and ride tickets for his fair slogan, "Your Ticket to Fun."

Food Rise Small Until Next Year?

WASHINGTON (AP) — Consumers can expect a 1.5 per cent increase in food prices at supermarkets and restaurants during the next four months, Agriculture Secretary Earl L. Butz and his economists say.

That would put 1975 prices 9 per cent above last year's, with part of the increase due to the 10.3 million metric tons of U.S. grains sold to the Soviet Union since last October, they said Thursday.

But they said the full impact of the sales to Russia will not be felt until next summer and fall because it takes three to 12 months for higher grain prices to be reflected in retail prices of meat and cereal products.

The 1.5 per cent push on food prices that the Soviet purchases already would contribute by themselves to inflation over the next 16 months will increase with their buying of perhaps another eight million tons this season, officials said.

The Russians already have bought in the world market about 16.5 million tons and can handle a total of about 25 million this season, "although they say it could be a little higher," Assistant Secretary Richard E. Bell said.

But any further purchases before January are already accounted for in the 9 per cent estimate.

That estimate is higher than the department's initial expectations of a 6 to 8 per cent increase in 1975 over 1974, but in the middle of the range it forecasted if bad weather required lower corn and wheat production estimates and higher export expectations.

At the fair Thursday, five prominent senior citizen awards were presented by the Ohio Commission on Aging to Dr. E.W. Eickelberg of Jackson, Mr. and Mrs. Glen Rousch of Gallipolis, Mrs. Verna Jenkins of Portsmouth, Mr. and Mrs. L.P. Vallery of Waverly and the Rev. DeLoss Smith of McArthur.

Awards to prominent senior citizens Friday were going to Donald Campbell of Guysville, Mr. and Mrs. Harold Snyder of Caldwell, Mrs. C.O. Chapman of Rutland, Mrs. Florence Pargoe of New Lexington and Mr. and Mrs. Grover Fox of Laurelvale.

Also planned on Friday, the 25th Crippled Children's Day at the fair, retired Judge William C. Bryant of Columbus, honorary chairman of the day, will be honored at a luncheon for two decades of work on behalf of crippled children.

Four Ohioans will be inducted into the Agricultural Hall of Fame on Friday. They are Wayne E. Brown of Columbus, owner of Big Bear Farms; A.B. Evans of Cedarville, breeder of Hampshire hogs and Angus cattle; Dr. Walter R. Krill of Columbus, dean emeritus of Ohio State University's College of Veterinary Medicine; and Thomas Scott Sutton, retired OSU scientific administrator, educator and researcher in agriculture.

Composer-singer Mac Davis entertains twice in the grandstand Friday with Roger Miller, the country music star from Nashville, and the Captain and Tennille, the married couple whose recent hit "Love Will Keep Us Together," filling the outdoor arena Saturday for 4:30 p.m. and 8:30 p.m. performances.

"There is absolutely no reason to panic over the food situation," Butz told reporters and, later, a conference of farm, trade and consumer-group representatives.

"We have record food supplies ahead ... and most of the increases in prices are behind us," with a 1.5 per cent jump from May to June and another 1.7 per cent rise last month, he said.

It has been 20 years since food prices declined from one year to the next. In both 1973 and 1974, partly because of the depletion of U.S. grain surpluses in 1972 by a 19-million-ton Russian grain purchase, retail food prices rose 14.5 per cent.

Agriculture Department economist J. Dawson Ahalt pointed out that the zoom from May through the first week of July in meat and fresh vegetable prices, which sharply escalated the food price index, was caused by the sharply reduced grain crops of a year ago and smaller plantings of potatoes.

Prices of beef, pork and other meat started to slide a little before the Russian purchases last month but are not expected to drop much more.

He said that this fall and early winter will see "somewhat moderating" prices for chickens, sugar, sugar products and processed fruits and vegetables.

"Most of the upward price drift that does occur during the fall will stem from the continued sharply reduced rate of pork output coupled with tightening supplies of eggs and strength in some dairy products," Ahalt said.

Markets

NEW YORK (AP) — Hopes for a letup in upward pressure on interest rates gave the stock market a modest lift today.

The noon Dow Jones average of 30 industrials was up 2.74 at 794.43, and gainers outnumbered losers by about a 2-1 margin on the New York Stock Exchange.

Investors seemed to have been encouraged by the substantial drop in the nation's money supply that showed up in weekly statistics issued by the Federal Reserve after the close Thursday. The data gave rise to hopes that the Fed would not have to take any more credit-tightening steps that have contributed to the rise of interest rates this summer.

On the American Stock Exchange, the market value index rose .20 to 82.93.

The NYSE's composite index gained .16 to 44.38.

Suits Filed For Delinquent Land Taxes

Pickaway County Prosecutor Richard Gearhardt reports that he has completed the necessary paper work to file suits for delinquent taxes on nine parcels of land. The parcels involve delinquent taxes amounting to $11,576.96.

The suits were filed Thursday with Sara Dresbach, Pickaway County Clerk of Courts.

Gearhardt adds that the suits involve a long drawn-out process and take months to be completed.

"The reason for filing suit," Gearhardt notes, "is that unpaid taxes create an unfair burden on those persons regularly paying taxes."

The procedures are strict, according to law, with the prosecuting attorney permitted to bring action for delinquent taxes only through the 1973 tax year.

It must be advertised in the newspaper with the taxpayer given one year grace period. Letters of notice then mailed on two to three different occasions to the person by the treasurer.

If there is no response to the letters then action will be brought against the violators.

There are approximately 194 parcels which are delinquent in Pickaway County.

Guns, Dog Pilfered By Thieves

Sheriff's Deputies investigated two reports of breaking and entering of county residents resulting in thefts amounting to $600.

Mike Purtee, Route 2, Homewood Trailer Park, told Deputy Jack Moats thieves broke into his 1974 pickup truck parked in the driveway of his residence sometime between Tuesday and Wednesday.

Entry was gained through an unlocked window with the thieves taking guns, flashlight and ear protectors.

The items were valued at $522.

A four-month-old Alaskan Malamute was allegedly taken by thieves between 1-7 a.m. Thursday, according to Wanda Liston, Route 3, Mt. Sterling. Mrs. Liston told Deputy James Dixon that her daughter noticed the dog missing from the front yard of their residence, Thursday. She noted that the puppy was shy and would not even leave its house.

The animal was valued at $150.

Radio Tower Blown Up

LISBON, Portugal (AP) — A strong explosion destroyed the national radio transmitter on the Portuguese island of Madeira some 600 miles northwest of here in the North Atlantic early today, officials reported.

They blamed the attack on separatist groups at odds with the leftist government in Lisbon.

There were no injuries reported in the TNT blast that wrecked the transmission tower at Monte, about two miles from the island capital of Funchal, shortly before dawn.

News of the attack came amid a climate of nervousness and uncertainty in Lisbon where persistent but unverified reports pointed to the imminent ouster of Premier Vasco Goncalves, an army general the Communists count on to protect their grip on key power centers.

The government took the unusual step today of announcing that Goncalves had not sought refuge in a Lisbon naval base.

Mrs. Ford Vote Getter?

VAIL, Colo. (AP) — First Lady Betty Ford says her outspoken comments on sex may have won a few votes for President Ford.

She told reporters Thursday that she didn't regret a story in the September issue of McCall's magazine, adding, "I hope you read the whole interview — it should be a big seller."

The magazine quoted her as saying she got letters from all across the country after she was reported to have spurned a White House tradition of separate bedrooms. She said she sleeps with her husband "as often as possible."

Reporters who talked to Mrs. Ford while she was shopping at this vacation spot asked about the President's joking comment that his wife's earlier comments in a television interview may have cost him 20 million votes.

"He has ribbed me a bit about it," Mrs. Ford said.

Bentsen Sees Economy Top Issue

CINCINNATI, Ohio (AP)—U.S. Sen. Lloyd M. Bentsen, D-Tex., said he believes the big issue in the next national election will be to get the economy moving again.

Bentsen, an announced candidate for the Democratic Presidential nomination in 1976, described himself as a "Roosevelt Democrat."

"President Ford's vulnerability depends a lot on the economy. If he continues on his current direction, the Democrats can win," he said.

Bentsen said there must be job training, public service jobs and an attempt to keep interest rates under control.

Regarding the Soviet Union, Bentsen said he generally favors Detente but so far, "I don't think we have traded hard enough. We certainly haven't received much in return for our concessions."

He said the Soviet navy has made great strides and the U.S. is now "sharing the seas, not controlling them as before. I don't see any way we will be taking control of the seas back."

Bentsen said the Russian wheat deals should be allowed to go through if it is established that the United States indeed has the surplus grain.

"We ought to wait until we know," Bentsen said.

Bentsen was in Cincinnati to address the American Hellenic Educational Progressive Association Convention.

New Office Building Approved

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Cleveland's proposed $26 million state office building won the approval Thursday of the Ohio Building Authority, which ordered final drawings of the building.

The board's 2-1 vote directs the architect and construction company to combine their efforts on a "schematic drawing" of the building, expressing its design, dimensions and construction.

The schematic drawing must come back to the authority for approval.

Chairman William C. Heer was the sole dissenter. After the vote, Heer said he felt the board was moving too fast and resigned as chairman.

Heer remains on the authority as vice chairman, while Harvey Oppmann was elected the board's new chairman.

Original plans called for a 15-story building with 350,000 square feet of office space. The amount of floor space within the building has been a point of contention, with some saying it could not be completely rented to government agencies.

Transatlantic Balloon Trip Fizzles Due To Small Leak

OTIS AIR FORCE BASE, Mass. (AP) — Though his second attempt at a solo transatlantic crossing in a balloon ended in another dunking, adventurer Bob Sparks says he will try again.

The red, white and blue balloon carrying Sparks and a hitchhiking companion sprang a leak Thursday and the heliumsupported craft drifted into the ocean 145 miles southeast of Nantucket Island. It was less than 18 hours after it lifted off from a Cape Cod golf course in the early morning darkness, headed for Europe.

"It's a beautiful body of water, and somebody ought to cross it in a balloon," Sparks, 39, said after a Coast Guard helicopter plucked him from the bobbing gondola.

"And even after two failures, I still want to do it. I've learned a lot about survival."

His previous misadventure was two summers ago, when he took off in Maine with the same announced destination but blew down in a thunderstorm off Newfoundland.

While Sparks flew back to this Air Force base a few miles from where he had taken off, his hitchhiker, crew chief G. Hadden Wood, decided to stay with the gondola. A Coast Guard cutter steamed out to bring it back to land.

Wood's unauthorized participation in the planned one-man trip was the major surprise of the short flight.

Wood, 44, of Greenwich, Conn., hung onto a rope as the gondola lifted off. He was still dangling there when the craft vanished from the view of 3,000 startled spectators.

Sparks, of Pottersville, N.J., said afterwards that he was upset when he found out what was going on.

"I realized it fairly early when Hadden yelled up to me, 'Hi, Bob. It's me,'" Sparks said. "I wanted to kill him. But once you're in a circumstance like that, the only thing I could do was pull him aboard."

The hitchhiker had nothing to do with the failure of the mission, Sparks said.

"No, there's no way you can blame Hadden for this. If it weren't for this leak, we would have been able to make it all the way across — with Hadden or without him."

One of the flight's sponsors, Harden Crawford, said he would be back the next time Sparks wants to try to cross the Atlantic again in a balloon, a feat that has never been accomplished.

Sparks said he would not attempt it again this year.

Mower Thieves Elude Dragnet

Circleville Police today believe two men who took a riding lawnmower from the Buckeye Mart about 8 p.m. Thursday night may have escaped their dragnet by fleeing out of town on the Kingston Pike.

A witness allegedly saw the men turn off Route 56 onto the Kingston Pike at a high rate of speed with the mower in the trunk of their car.

Police were alerted to the theft by another witness, who saw the men cut across the Diltz Citgo lot, 514 E. Main St., with the mower.

They apparently drove across E. Main St. into the Gulf station lot, drove south on Mingo St., and then west on E. Union St.

The car they were driving has been described as an older model Dodge, red in color, with a partial license plate identification that includes the letters "UT."

The mower, an eight horsepower Huffy three speed valued at $418, was apparently picked up from in front of the Buckeye Mart store.

Youth Charged With Traffic Violations

Eighteen-year-old Mark Anthony Lutz, Route 2, was arrested by Pickaway County Sheriff's Deputy Dan Dewey Thursday night for reckless operation, excessive bumper height, and excessive noise in the village of Williamsport.

Lutz, who is presently on probation by juvenile court authorities, was at the Dairy Shed in Williamsport causing a slight disturbance when Deputy Dewey advised him to go home that he was out after curfew.

He was then apprehended by Deputy Dewey and cited. He is scheduled to appear in court today.

Make Survey
On Control
Of Insects

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — A study designed to help state corn growers improve pest control and reduce insect control costs is being conducted this summer in 10 central and southeast Ohio counties.

Supervised by the Ohio Agricultural Research and Development Center, two survey teams began in May the monitoring of insect presence and damage in 150 state no-tillage cornfields. The study will continue through September.

Gene Pouley, a college student participating in the study under the supervision of center entomologist G. J. Musick, said five randomly selected 25-foot sections of rows are checked for insect presence and damage in each of the 60 fields the teams survey weekly.

The survey deals only with no-till operations which are used extensively in the counties included in the study: Jefferson, Belmont, Carroll, Holmes, Ashland, Coshocton, Licking, Perry, Wayne and Knox counties.

Musick says the survey will help researchers study the occurrence and potential damage of soil and above-ground insects in no-tillage corn production systems.

It also will provide information to help scientists make reliable predictions of the cropping sequence and field histories which lead to particular problems in no-tillage corn, he said.

The survey is part of a sixstate project which also includes Illinois, Indiana, Iowa, Missouri and Nebraska. It is funded by the United States Department of Agriculture Cooperative State Research Service and the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency.

Make Survey
On Control
Of Insects

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — A study designed to help state corn growers improve pest control and reduce insect control costs is being conducted this summer in 10 central and southeast Ohio counties.

Supervised by the Ohio Agricultural Research and Development Center, two survey teams began in May the monitoring of insect presence and damage in 150 state no-tillage cornfields. The study will continue through September.

Gene Pouley, a college student participating in the study under the supervision of center entomologist G. J. Musick, said five randomly selected 25-foot sections of rows are checked for insect presence and damage in each of the 60 fields the teams survey weekly.

The survey deals only with no-till operations which are used extensively in the counties included in the study: Jefferson, Belmont, Carroll, Holmes, Ashland, Coshocton, Licking, Perry, Wayne and Knox counties.

Musick says the survey will help researchers study the occurrence and potential damage of soil and above-ground insects in no-tillage corn production systems.

It also will provide information to help scientists make reliable predictions of the cropping sequence and field histories which lead to particular problems in no-tillage corn, he said.

The survey is part of a sixstate project which also includes Illinois, Indiana, Iowa, Missouri and Nebraska. It is funded by the United States Department of Agriculture Cooperative State Research Service and the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency.

A Page Of Opinion

Where Will It End?

News that natural gas may be so short this winter that homeowners will be affected comes as no surprise. The trend for the past two years has pointed in that direction.

Pipeline company officials are talking of 40 per cent cutbacks to distributors, who, in turn, cut back major users. However, this time there may be small cuts to residential users as well, possibly 2.5 per cent.

Basically, we feel residential use should be cut voluntarily as much as possible. A warm house doesn't mean much if you don't have a job.

There is a solemn beauty in Ireland. The hills stand green over tempestuous seas, crouching against the whining wind and the spume arcing white plumes over the rocks. The villages attach themselves to the curving roads like old rosaries.

It is a place of stubborn independence where the poor do not wish to be beholden to any man for a crust of bread. It is a place of sudden death and deep-toned church bells, laughter and whiskey, yellow teeth and women peering from behind the edge of curtains.

There is wit and poetry and clothesline gossip and a pint in a pub and a brooding contempt for Great Britain. There is also the summer lightning of a civil war which never breaks into solid rain. A man must husband his hatred as he embraces his loves. Is one emotion stronger than another?

Gayle and I went to Ireland. My old man said that we were the first of the clan to get back to the auld sod. "And good riddance," he said. "If you open your mouth, they'll close it for you."

We met a cousin at Upper Scooby, Enniscorthy, Wexford. He was 74, a weathered beet farmer with muck on his trousers. He could not recall whether I was the lieutenant of police, and my old man was the writer, or was it the other way 'round.

He lived in a white washed house with a thatched roof: We were invited into the living room, which was less inviting than the kitchen. It was November and the chill was on the walls. He tossed loose newspapers into a fireplace and threw a match after them.

There was a rush of flame which seared the skin. "The tea and bread will be ready in a minute." In a lane on the side of the house were some animals, including an ass called Jim.

We told him that we had rented a Ford Anglia and were driving from Dublin down to Waterford and then across to Cork. "Ah, Dublin," he said pensively, "and how is the city?"

I asked if he had married, and he said no. He hadn't found the right "gurrill." This was untrue. Irish farmers hang onto their sons. The parents remind the boys of the struggle against hard ground to make a living. The boys owe something.

They are not permitted to date girls until they are 35, sometimes 40 years old. The Irish girls are more progressive. If they can't see a good man over the next hill, they work to save up for an ocean voyage. They emigrate to Australia, Canada and the United States.

For 200 years, right through the potato famine, the population of Ireland remained the same —

What IS dismaying is lowering the thermostat and practicing conservation only to find your gas bill is as high as the previous winter. Rate increases almost certainly guarantee this will happen.

We would venture a prediction that if natural gas is deregulated, the supply will soon become plentiful. The only trouble is, you'll have to pay three times as much.

While the suppliers wring their hands and claim they can't make enough money, natural gas bubbles from Gulf of Mexico wells into the air, useless to all.

3,000,000. My cousin didn't act as though life had shortchanged him, giving him pence instead of pounds.

He did his daily work. He went to mass and the sacraments. He fought the good fight in the pubs. And he slept with a scrubbed conscience. It was obvious that he didn't like my dark suit, the gleaming shoes and the pale trench coat.

I reminded him of an English remittance man. The conversation tapered and I pressed some money into his hand. "No, no," he shouted. "I will not hear of it. I won't. I won't." He took it.

The farewell was more cordial than the welcome. We drove down the beautiful lanes, trying hard to stay on the left side. On one turn we almost unhorsed an Irish constable coming up a hill. Gayle had convulsions as I gassed the car.

The streams between the hills were sparkling clear. The trees were thick and sturdy against the constant wind. Always there was one more church,

NEW YORK (AP) — Between now and Labor Day there comes an even deeper pause in man's occupations that is attributed to the dog days, to vacations, to uncertainty, to fatigue, to sheer indifference or satiety.

Immediately after Labor Day, which this year is the very first day of September, the calendar of activities will be full again. You can see it developing now. Dates are set. The invitations are in the mail.

Advertising campaigns will be inaugurated. New cars will appear. Television shows will debut. New freshmen will, too.

Annual conventions will be held. Seminars, symposiums, conferences will take place one after another, some on conflicting dates. The speeches have already been written although the speakers might not have read them yet.

It is the time when economists begin gathering data for their annual look ahead, when corporate presidents renew efforts to cut costs, when jobhoppers make their moves.

Congress comes back. This will not catch you by surprise because there will automatically arise over the land an air of criticism or controversy or speculation.

All this activity will commence simultaneously, as if the matters to be dealt with can be sorted out swiftly and

All the while these claims of poverty are heard, producers have gone out of their way to confuse those agencies trying to determine how much natural gas is available.

Regrettably, most of the federal actions taken so far in all the various shortages seem to be aimed at making the consumer dig deeper and deeper.

one more cemetery. A lady with two little ones served tea and biscuits. I left a half crown tip. She followed us to the car. "You forgot something, mister," she said, curling her lip with scorn.

We came home on the Cunard liner Ivernia and I wrote a few impressions of Ireland. It was important to state it as I saw it. There are worse cooks than the Irish — the Arabs. There are philosophers and there are illiterates. A good meal is a joint of greasy mutton. Porridge, thick as warm cement, is a good breakfast.

I wrote it and forgot it. A month later someone mailed a Dublin newspaper to me. It stated, on an inside page, that Jim Bishop, a writer from America, had been denounced yesterday by voice vote in the Dail. The membership invited him never to return to the land of his ancestors.

My old man read it and smiled fiendishly. "Now that's a fine howdoyou," he said. "I knew that big mouth would get you into trouble." ...

attacked at once, as if the problems that defied solution a few weeks ago now will dissolve before the replenished powers of rested minds.

The origin of this annual burst of activity probably has something to do with the weather or with patterns established in childhood, when the return to school meant a new beginning, a new challenge and possibly new accomplishments.

But unlike schooldays, which generally extend over a nine-month year, the events we must deal with after Labor Day are 12-month matters that really shouldn't have been postponed.

When President Ford returns, for example, he must decide what he's going to do about prices. If he cannot control inflation he might very well see his entire election effort undermined.

The fact is that jawboning has not yet conquered the demon inflation. And talk alone isn't going to prevent prices already in the pipeline from reaching the retail level in months to come.

While America rested, its problems didn't. They went on, and in some instances they became bigger problems because they weren't dealt with.

Will that jobless rate fall? A lot of Americans won't be convinced the nation is on the road to recovery until it does. But it might not fall on its own; it might require a push from government.

The Federal Reserve Board might have to act also. Interest rates are rising, and that doesn't look good for the future of activities ranging from housing to factory modernization to the stock market.

Time never takes a vacation. It marches on, carrying with it the debris of decisions unmade, problems unsolved, ready to dump them the day after Labor Day.

Euclid Man Heads Real Estate Panel

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Paul J. Everson of Euclid, the newest member of the Ohio Real Estate Commission, was elected the group's president Thursday.

Everson, a Republican, replaces Irving J. Franklin of Cleveland, who was unable to attend the meeting.

Other board members, Donald R. Goodard and Chester C. Sudbrack, Cincinnati Republicans, and Edward J. Kizer, a Portsmouth Democrat, voted for Everson.

State law requires an annual reorganization of the commission at the time a new member is appointed.

The new Saltcreek bridge and road straightening improvement on Route 56 near Stringtown was officially opened to traffic.

The Herman Goldfrederick farm of 171 acres in Saltcreek Township sold at sheriff's sale for $29.25 an acre to a Cincinnati life insurance company, the lone bidder for the property. The land had been appraised at $40 an acre.

William Neff was appointed marshal of Williamsport at the salary of $15 a month. This was $7 a month more than was paid to George King, who had resigned the post.

Fire of undetermined origin destroyed the barn on the property of L.M. and Miss Agnes Butch of 134 Watt St.

Speaking Of Your Health

by Lester L. Coleman, M.D.

Why are some pills taken before meals and others taken during or after meals?

Mr. J. W., Wash.

Dear Mr. W.:

When drugs are so specifically prescribed patients should not vary from the instructions. Some medicines can be irritating to the lining of the stomach, especially when it is empty.

It is for this reason that some drugs are taken with the meal; so they can mix with the food and stay in close contact with the lining membrane of the stomach and the upper intestine.

Other drugs may be more rapidly absorbed in an empty stomach. For rapid and maximum effectiveness, they may be taken before meals.

There are also a number of drugs that are purposely given just after meals. Such instructions are not haphazard. They are given with a purpose and should be followed.

My 6-month-old grandchild has "infantile eczema." Do children ever outgrow it?

Mrs. N. V., Ky.

Dear Mrs. V.: This skin condition is known as "atopic dermatitis." It is almost always an allergic reaction.

The face is the most common site, but the undersurface of the knees, armpits and buttocks may show the characteristic red, angry appearance.

An interesting observation has been made that breast-fed infants rarely develop "infantile eczema." Cow's milk, therefore, may be an offender. Children with this condition usually show other evidences of allergy.

With allergic studies, the offending substance can be found. When this is eliminated, and with the drugs that are now available, infantile eczema can be controlled.

In most instances, the condition clears up and leaves no aftereffects.

Armstrong To Head Research

CINCINNATI, Ohio (AP) — Former Astronaut Neil Armstrong has been named to head a new medical-engineering institute working on heart-lung machine pumps.

Armstrong, the first man to set foot on the Moon, who plans to remain a professor of aeronautical engineering at the University of Cincinnati, was not available for comment.

The university said, in a release, that the institute was set up between Cincinnati, Purdue and Cincinnati Jewish Hospital to seek graduate students and grants.

Armstrong, Dr. George Rieveschl, vice president of special projects at UC, Dr. Henry Heimlich, director of surgery at Jewish Hospital and Dr. Edward A. Patrick, professor of electrical engineering at Purdue are all associated with the institute.

The four are members of a research team that recently announced an improved pump for heart-lung machines. The pump was originally designed by NASA to circulate fluid in the astronauts' space-suits. It was researched and tested for use in outside-the-body heart-lung systems in the Jewish Hospital surgical research unit, the university said.

The project resulted from a $30,000 grant made to Dr. Heimlich and Armstrong by the Corbett Foundation.

Current research is directed toward modifications of the pump and development of portable oxygen systems for victims of emphysema and chronic bronchitis, the university said.

Day Care Licenses Rise In 6 Months

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — State Welfare Director William F. KcKenna said more than 375 new day care facilities were issued during the year ending June 30 and an additional 246 license applications were pending.

He said the number of licensed facilities operating as of June 30 were 1,608. Under state law, any center serving five or more children must be licensed dangerous and we don't know what to do with them."

John Greacen, head of the National Institute for Juvenile Justice and Delinquency Prevention, predicted in an interview Wednesday that the U.S. rate of juvenile crime will continue high for at least 15 more years. He said the new agency, which will spend $25 million on juvenile crime programs between now and Dec. 31, cannot hope to curb the youth crime rate in the immediate future.

"I don't see any substantial likelihood that the amount of youth crime in the United States is going to go down any substantial degree between now and 1990," Greacen said.

Statistics compiled by the Law Enforcement Assistance Administration, the institute's parent agency, show that the rate of arrests per 100,000 juveniles increased from 7.4 in 1963 to about 12 in 1973.

The juvenile arrest rate for violent crimes more than doubled during the same period, Greacen said. He also cited FBI statistics showing that persons under 18 accounted for 23 per cent of all arrests for violent crimes in 1973.

He said he expects the increase in youth crime to "reach its peak" soon. "But it's not going to go down from that peak, because nothing is changing. The relative proportion of persons in the crime-prone years is not changing very dramatically," he noted.

"When you look at where the problem really is, which is inner-city minority youths, and you make demographic projections there, you see that there really will be little change over the next 15 years."

Greacen said he agrees with a number of juvenile authorities that about 15 per cent "of those youths who we would call delinquents should be handled in a pretty strong way. They should be locked up."

Cause Of Death Public Information

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — The Indiana Court of Appeals ruled Wednesday the cause of death listed on a death certificate is public information.

The ruling affirmed a decision by Judge William Miller of Vanderburgh Circuit Court in favor of the Evansville Printing Corp. The Evansville-Vanderburgh County Department of Health sued the newspaper firm asking a declaratory judgment that cause of death is not public information.

The three newspapers published by EPC accused the health agency of selling copies of death certificates to everyone but reporters.

It is a place of stubborn independence where the poor do not wish to be beholden to any man for a crust of bread. It is a place of sudden death and deep-toned church bells, laughter and whiskey, yellow teeth and women peering from behind the edge of curtains.

There is wit and poetry and clothesline gossip and a pint in a pub and a brooding contempt for Great Britain. There is also the summer lightning of a civil war which never breaks into solid rain. A man must husband his hatred as he embraces his loves. Is one emotion stronger than another?

Gayle and I went to Ireland. My old man said that we were the first of the clan to get back to the auld sod. "And good riddance," he said. "If you open your mouth, they'll close it for you."

We met a cousin at Upper Scooby, Enniscoorthy, Wexford. He was 74, a weathered beef farmer with muck on his trousers. He could not recall whether I was the lieutenant of police, and my old man was the writer, or was it the other way 'round.

He lived in a white washed house with a thatched roof. We were invited into the living room, which was less inviting than the kitchen. It was November and the chill was on the walls. He tossed loose newspapers into a fireplace and threw a match after them.

There was a rush of flame which seared the skin. "The tea and bread will be ready in a minute." In a lane on the side of the house were some animals, including an ass called Jim.

We told him that we had rented a Ford Anglia and were driving from Dublin down to Waterford and then across to Cork. "Ah, Dublin," he said pensively, "and how is the city?"

I asked if he had married, and he said no. He hadn't found the right "gurrill." This was untrue. Irish farmers hang onto their sons. The parents remind the boys of the struggle against hard ground to make a living. The boys owe something.

They are not permitted to date girls until they are 35, sometimes 40 years old. The Irish girls are more progressive. If they can't see a good man over the next hill, they work to save up for an ocean voyage. They emigrate to Australia, Canada and the United States.

For 200 years, right through the potato famine, the population of Ireland remained the same —

What IS dismaying is lowering the thermostat and practicing conservation only to find your gas bill is as high as the previous winter. Rate increases almost certainly guarantee this will happen.

We would venture a prediction that if natural gas is deregulated, the supply will soon become plentiful. The only trouble is, you'll have to pay three times as much.

While the suppliers wring their hands and claim they can't make enough money, natural gas bubbles from Gulf of Mexico wells into the air, useless to all.

3,000,000. My cousin didn't act as though life had shortchanged him, giving him pence instead of pounds.

He did his daily work. He went to mass and the sacraments. He fought the good fight in the pubs. And he slept with a scrubbed conscience. It was obvious that he didn't like my dark suit, the gleaming shoes and the pale trench coat.

It reminded him of an English remittance man. The conversation tapered and I pressed some money into his hand. "No, no," he shouted. "I will not hear of it. I won't. I won't."

The farewell was more cordial than the welcome. We drove down the beautiful lanes, trying hard to stay on the left side. On one turn we almost unhorsed an Irish constable coming up a hill. Gayle had convulsions as I gassed the car.

The streams between the hills were sparkling clear. The trees were thick and sturdy against the constant wind. Always there was one more church,

NEW YORK (AP) — Between now and Labor Day there comes an even deeper pause in man's occupations that is attributed to the dog days, to vacations, to uncertainty, to fatigue, to sheer indifference or satiety.

Immediately after Labor Day, which this year is the very first day of September, the calendar of activities will be full again. You can see it developing now. Dates are set. The invitations are in the mail.

Advertising campaigns will be inaugurated. New cars will appear. Television shows will debut. New freshmen will, too.

Annual conventions will be held. Seminars, symposiums, conferences will take place one after another, some on conflicting dates. The speeches have already been written although the speakers might not have read them yet.

It is the time when economists begin gathering data for their annual look ahead, when corporate presidents renew efforts to cut costs, when jobhoppers make their moves.

Congress comes back. This will not catch you by surprise because there will automatically arise over the land an air of criticism or controversy or speculation.

All this activity will commence simultaneously, as if the matters to be dealt with can be sorted out swiftly and

All the while these claims of poverty are heard, producers have gone out of their way to confuse those agencies trying to determine how much natural gas is available.

Regrettably, most of the federal actions taken so far in all the various shortages seem to be aimed at making the consumer dig deeper and deeper.

If the price gouging continues, we venture a second prediction: President Ford will find heavy clouds on the 1976 election horizon, put there by the energy robber barons.

We came home on the Cunard liner Ivernia and I wrote a few impressions of Ireland. It was important to state it as I saw it. There are worse cooks than the Irish — the Arabs. There are philosophers and there are illiterates. A good meal is a joint of greasy mutton. Porridge, thick as warm cement, is a good breakfast.

I wrote it and forgot it. A month later someone mailed a Dublin newspaper to me. It stated, on an inside page, that Jim Bishop, a writer from America, had been denounced yesterday by voice vote in the Dail. The membership invited him never to return to the land of his ancestors.

My old man read it and smiled fiendishly. "Now that's a fine howdydo," he said. "I knew that big mouth would get you into trouble." ...

The new Saltcreek bridge and road straightening improvement on Route 56 near Stringtown was officially opened to traffic.

The Herman Goldfrederick farm of 171 acres in Saltcreek Township sold at sheriff's sale for $29.25 an acre to a Cincinnati life insurance company, the lone bidder for the property. The land had been appraised at $40 an acre.

William Neff was appointed marshal of Williamsport at the salary of $15 a month. This was $7 a month more than was paid to George King, who had resigned the post.

Speaking Of Your Health

by Lester L. Coleman, M.D.

Why are some pills taken before meals and others taken during or after meals?

Mr. J. W., Wash.

Dear Mr. W.:

When drugs are so specifically prescribed patients should not vary from the instructions. Some medicines can be irritating to the lining of the stomach, especially when it is empty.

It is for this reason that some drugs are taken with the meal; so they can mix with the food and stay in close contact with the lining membrane of the stomach and the upper intestine.

Other drugs may be more rapidly absorbed in an empty stomach. For rapid and maximum effectiveness, they may be taken before meals.

There are also a number of drugs that are purposely given just after meals. Such instructions are not haphazard. They are given with a purpose and should be followed.

My 6-month-old grandchild has "infantile eczema." Do children ever outgrow it?

Mrs. N. V., Ky.

Dear Mrs. V.: This skin condition is known as "atopic dermatitis." It is almost always an allergic reaction.

The face is the most common site, but the undersurface of the knees, armpits and buttocks may show the characteristic red, angry appearance.

An interesting observation has been made that breast-fed infants rarely develop "infantile eczema." Cow's milk, therefore, may be an offender. Children with this condition usually show other evidences of allergy.

With allergic studies, the offending substance can be found. When this is eliminated, and with the drugs that are now available, infantile eczema can be controlled.

In most instances, the condition clears up and leaves no aftereffects.

Armstrong To Head Research

CINCINNATI, Ohio (AP) — Former Astronaut Neil Armstrong has been named to head a new medical-engineering institute working on heart-lung machine pumps.

Armstrong, the first man to set foot on the Moon, who plans to remain a professor of aeronautical engineering at the University of Cincinnati, was not available for comment.

The university said, in a release, that the institute was set up between Cincinnati, Purdue and Cincinnati Jewish Hospital to seek graduate students and grants.

Armstrong, Dr. George Rieveschl, vice president of special projects at UC, Dr. Henry Heimlich, director of surgery at Jewish Hospital and Dr. Edward A. Patrick, professor of electrical engineering at Purdue are all associated with the institute.

The four are members of a research team that recently announced an improved pump for heart-lung machines. The pump was originally designed by NASA to circulate fluid in the astronauts' space-suits. It was researched and tested for use in outside-the-body heart-lung systems in the Jewish Hospital surgical research unit, the university said.

The project resulted from a $30,000 grant made to Dr. Heimlich and Armstrong by the Corbett Foundation.

Current research is directed toward modifications of the pump and development of portable oxygen systems for victims of emphysema and chronic bronchitis, the university said.

Day Care Licenses Rise In 6 Months

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — State Welfare Director William F. McKenna said more than 375 new day care facilities were issued during the year ending June 30 and an additional 246 license applications were pending.

He said the number of licensed facilities operating as of June 30 were 1,608. Under state law, any center serving five or more children must be licensed dangerous and we don't know what to do with them."

John Greacen, head of the National Institute for Juvenile Justice and Delinquency Prevention, predicted in an interview Wednesday that the U.S. rate of juvenile crime will continue high for at least 15 more years. He said the new agency, which will spend $25 million on juvenile crime programs between now and Dec. 31, cannot hope to curb the youth crime rate in the immediate future.

"I don't see any substantial likelihood that the amount of youth crime in the United States is going to go down any substantial degree between now and 1990," Greacen said.

Statistics compiled by the Law Enforcement Assistance Administration, the institute's parent agency, show that the rate of arrests per 100,000 juveniles increased from 7.4 in 1963 to about 12 in 1973.

The juvenile arrest rate for violent crimes more than doubled during the same period, Greacen said. He also cited FBI statistics showing that persons under 18 accounted for 23 per cent of all arrests for violent crimes in 1973.

He said he expects the increase in youth crime to "reach its peak" soon. "But it's not going to go down from that peak, because nothing is changing. The relative proportion of persons in the crime-prone years is not changing very dramatically," he noted.

"When you look at where the problem really is, which is inner-city minority youths, and you make demographic projections there, you see that there really will be little change over the next 15 years."

Greacen said he agrees with a number of juvenile authorities that about 15 per cent "of those youths who we would call delinquents should be handled in a pretty strong way. They should be locked up."

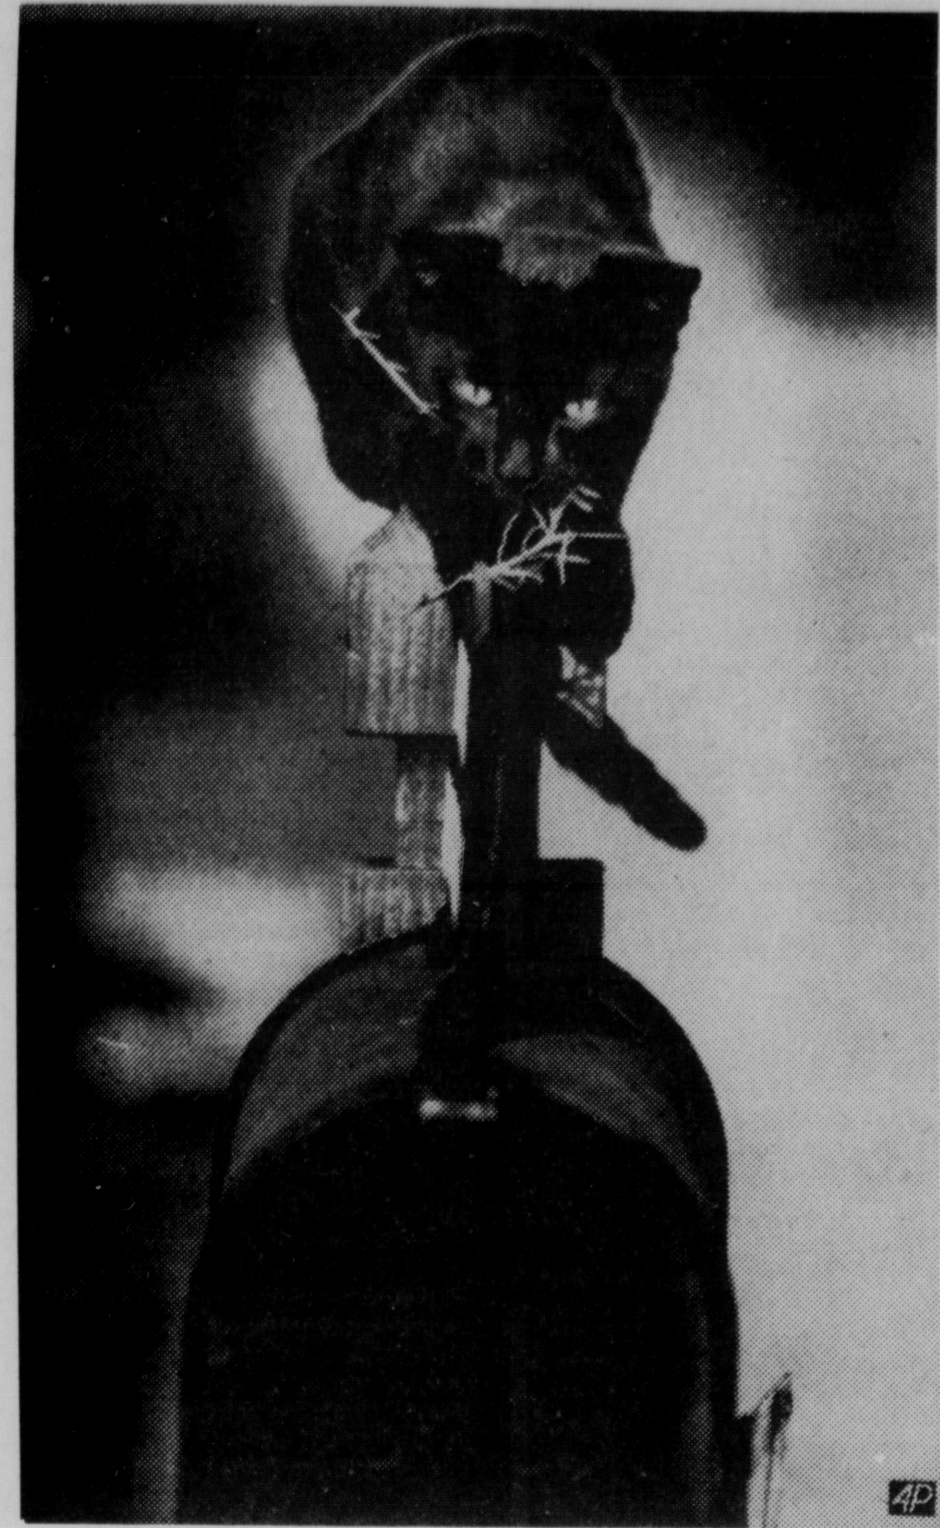

Cause Of Death Public Information

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — The Indiana Court of Appeals ruled Wednesday the cause of death listed on a death certificate is public information.

The ruling affirmed a decision by Judge William Miller of Vanderburgh Circuit Court in favor of the Evansville Printing Corp. The Evansville-Vanderburgh County Department of Health sued the newspaper firm asking a declaratory judgment that cause of death is not public information.

The three newspapers published by EPC accused the health agency of selling copies of death certificates to everyone but reporters.

Rhodes Signs Bill On Emergency Aid

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Needy families out of both food and money will be able to receive emergency food aid under terms of a bill signed into law by Gov. James A. Rhodes.

The bill, which carries an effective date of Nov. 19, allows county welfare offices to give emergency food stamp aid to some families before their application for food stamps has been reviewed and approved.

In order to be eligible for the emergency aid, the family must have less than $30 in cash and otherwise appear eligible for free food stamps.

Vice Mayor Faces Ouster

CINCINNATI, Ohio (AP)—Ouster proceedings were initiated by Cincinnati City council members after Vice Mayor William Chenault vowed not to resign despite his conviction for falsifying city records.

Minority Republicans Guy Guckenberger and Helen Hinckley said they are preparing a petition of ouster that, under Ohio law, requires only five signatures.

Charterite Thomas Brush said he would add his name to the petition but preferred that the signatures come from private citizens. Brush also called a meeting of the controlling Democrat-Charterite Coalition to remove Chenault from chairmanship of the powerful Urban Development Committee.

Chenault was fined $2,000 in Hamilton County Common Pleas Court last week after pleading guilty to four counts of falsifying city vouchers in the amount of approximately $3,000. Hamilton County Prosecutor Simon Leis Jr. agreed to drop felony charges after Chenault pleaded guilty to the misdemeanors.

Brain Scanner Proves Success

CINCINNATI, Ohio (AP) — A two-month-old brain scanner at the University of Cincinnati Medical Center that yields 100 times the information of a normal X-ray "is even better than I expected it to be," according to the supervisor of the program.

"This is the best single look at the brain you can get at the present time," said Dr. Robert Lukin, assistant professor of radiology and director of neuroradiology. "Diagnoses are made easier and more accurately."

The machine, a computer axial tomography scanner, was developed about four years ago in England by EMI, Ltd., said Lukin, who led a three-year drive to obtain a scanner for this area.

Installed at Cincinnati General Hospital in June, the $400,000 device is the first in Southwestern Ohio, according to Lukin, and tests about 50 patients a week from all over the region.

The machine consists of an X-ray device which fits around the head and neck and rotates, taking about 40,000 separate readings but using only about the same amount of radiation as a normal X-ray.

The readings then are fed to a computer, which prepares a printout and assembles a picture on a video screen, from which a print can be made.

From that print, which shows a cross-section of the brain about one centimeter wide, a doctor can distinguish between bone, blood clots, tumors and other types of tissue through the density of the material.

"All different densities look alike on a plain X-ray," Lukin explained.

Rhodes Signs Bill On Emergency Aid

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Needy families out of both food and money will be able to receive emergency food aid under terms of a bill signed into law by Gov. James A. Rhodes.

The bill, which carries an effective date of Nov. 19, allows county welfare offices to give emergency food stamp aid to some families before their application for food stamps has been reviewed and approved.

In order to be eligible for the emergency aid, the family must have less than $30 in cash and otherwise

The emergency aid is limited to a month's supply of food stamps. The bill also establishes a 30-day deadline for county welfare offices to approve or deny food stamp applications.

The bill was sponsored by Rep. David Hartley, D-60 Springfield.

The governor also announced Thursday that he had signed bills to:

—Prevent a person guilty of voluntary manslaughter from collecting insurance proceeds from the victim's death or otherwise profiting from the death.

—Empower elected officials to administer oaths of office to other public officials.

—Permit counties to adopt building code regulations enabling flood hazard areas to participate in federal flood insurance programs.

—Expand the scope for the Ohio State University college of veterinary medicine's dog research facility to include canine diseases, particularly when such research is useful in treating human disorders.

—Authorize municipal ordinances to be read in council or commission meetings by title only unless a majority of the council requests a full reading.

—Permit townships to buy liability insurance for constables and police officers.

—Permit community mental health services to be covered in hospital service associations such as Blue Cross.

BOSTON TEA PARTY—Conversing before the annual dinner party of Philip's Flock, social organization of St. Philip's Episcopal Church, are shown from the left, Mrs. David Williams, Mrs. Jerry Francis, and Mr. and Mrs. Chuck Schieman. Over an open charcoal pit, a pig and two turkeys were cooked as might have been done in colonial days. Corn, roasted in the husks, and other food in keeping with the Bicentennial celebration, were served to members and guests alongside the swimming pool at the home of Mr. and Mrs. John Dunlap Jr., Route 1, Williamsport on Saturday evening. Many dressed as colonists and others carried out the red, white and blue theme used in decorations featuring American flags of different eras in history.

Dear Abby:

Pre-Marital Affair Still Haunts Marriage

DEAR ABBY: I am able to appreciate the wisdom of your advice to the girl who was reluctant to tell her fiancé that she had undergone an abortion before they met.

The adage "honesty is the best policy" can, in some cases, hold nothing but regret for the wide-eyed innocent who is eager to start married life with no secrets.

As a naive 19-year-old, I confessed to my fiancé that there had been another man in my life before I met him. And I foolishly told him who it was.

Thirty years and four adult children later, my husband still throws this man in my face periodically, even though I have been a devoted and faithful wife.

How much better off we both would have been had I not made that confession.

I hope you will print this for others who might be inclined to tell all. Silence is indeed golden.

DEAR BRIDE: Silence is not always golden. It is sometimes "guilt."

DEAR ABBY: I would like to be cremated when I die. Is that possible? I am a Catholic.

Also how much is involved, moneywise: Please answer in your column. There must be others wanting the same information. Thank you.

WANTS CREMATION
DEAR WANTS: Catholics may now be cremated. The cost will depend upon your funeral director, but it shouldn't cost any more than $300 to go up in smoke.

DEAR ABBY: Venereal disease is now SECOND on the list of communicable diseases. The first is the common cold.

Most people don't know that if V.D. goes untreated, it can affect the heart, and spinal cord, and can eventually lead to death.

The National Community Service Corps has established a national hotline that can be called FREE from anywhere in the U.S.A.

It is operated mostly by teenagers who have all the answers concerning V.D., including the symptoms to look for as well as where to go for free examinations and treatment in your own community.

The number to call is 1-800-523-1885.

JO—ANNE IN MASS.

DEAR JO—ANNE: I checked out without disclosing my identity and received straight, accurate and easily understood answers to all the questions I asked about V.D.

I highly recommend this service to anyone who has reason to believe that he (or she) has a venereal disease.

CONFIDENTIAL TO G. IN ANCHORAGE: It is said that one does not look behind the door unless he has once stood there, himself. If I were you, I'd watch HIM!

Auto Layoffs Rise Due To Walkout

DETROIT (AP) — Auto industry layoffs will increase by more than 7,000 next week as General Motors Corp. delays starting 1976 production at four factories because of a strike at the Fisher Body fabricating plant in Lordstown, Ohio.

Some 14,000 hourly workers have been idled as a result of the strike by 2,500 members of United Auto Workers Local 1714, a GM spokesman said. The workers walked off the job July 18 in a dispute over production standards.

The spokesman said a parts shortage caused by the strike has indefinitely delayed newmodel output at assembly plants at Lordstown; Southgate, Calif.; Ste. Therese, Que.; and Scarborough, Ont.

For the industry as a whole, 21,825 workers will be on temporary layoffs next week because of plant shutdowns and 117,060 will be on indefinite layoffs of a total workforce of 702,000.

Last week there were 13,725 temporary layoffs and 102,510 indefinites. The Lordstown car and van lines were to have gone down Aug. 8 for model changeover and begin 1976 output on Monday. The spokesman said the plant would have to continue 1975-model production for an indefinite period after the strike is settled to use up existing parts inventories before the changeover could begin.

Some 7,300 Lordstown assemblers are idled by the strike.

The other plants shut by the strike already have completed changeovers. Southgate was to begin new-model output on Monday, Ste. Therese on Tuesday and Scarborough on Wednesday.

The spokesman said 2,800 hourly workers are idled at South Gate, 2,900 at Ste. Therese and 1,000 at Scarborough. Subcompact cars and light trucks are assembled at the plants.

GM, which has begun 1976 model production at all its other U.S. assembly plants, also said it expects to reduce the number of indefinite layoffs of hourly workers to 63,000 by the end of the month. About 75,000 of the firm's 400,000 blue collar workers were on longterm furlough at the start of August.

OSU Program Given Law Enforcement Grant

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The Law Enforcement Assistance Administration has awarded a $155,917 grant to the Ohio State University Program for the Study of Crime and Delinquency to evaluate rehabilitation programs for adult felons.

The grant will fund a six-month national study of the cost, effectiveness and value of such residential inmate programs as halfway houses and community reintegration centers, said Dr. Harry E. Allen, program director.

Trekkies Plan Star-Filled Party

CHICAGO (AP) — The Star Ship Enterprise blasted off on its five-year mission "to explore where no man has gone before" in September 1966. At the time, Lisa Boynton was a 26-year-old short order cook in Columbus, Ohio.

The "Star Trek" television series was canceled in March 1968, but Lisa Boynton and thousands of other Trekkies, as they love to be called, haven't given up on their favorite science fiction show.

Miss Boynton, a tax consultant and a law student, has carried her Trekkie fanaticism to the ultimate end: She's assembled virtually the entire Star Trek cast for one weekend. Helping her are the 105 members of Starfleet Command, a Chicago-area Star Trek club with members aged 6 to 60.

Lucasville Inmate Stabbed

LUCASVILLE, Ohio (AP) — A 33-year-old inmate, serving a long term on variety of charges, has been found stabbed to death with a homemade knife at the Southern Ohio Correctional Facility in Lucasville.

The Department of Correction and Rehabilitation identified the apparent homicide victim as Kennert Johnson, who was serving four to 25 years.

A correction spokesman said Johnson was stabbed in the neck and chest Thursday sometime between 1 p.m. and 1:25 p.m. when his body was discovered behind bleachers in a prison gymnasium. The knife was recovered.

Johnson had been sentenced from Cuyahoga County for burglary, grand theft, forgery, carrying a concealed weapon and aggravated robbery.

He had been imprisoned since June 10, 1974, but had been in the Lucasville facility only since last May.

Johnson also served seven years in Michigan, the department spokesman said. His family was notified in Detroit.

The Highway Patrol and prison officials were investigating, but there was no apparent motive or suspect, the spokesman said.

Johnson was one of 200 inmates who had gone into the gym and yard for a recreation period at 1 p.m.

Beaming down to a life-size mockup of the Enterprise bridge on Friday, Saturday and Sunday will be stars William Shatner (Capt. Kirk), Leonard Nimoy (the pointy-eared, philosophical Mr. Spock), and crew members DeForest Kelley, James Doohan, Michelle Nichols, George Takei, Walter Keonig, Mark Lenard and Arlene Martel.

Also attending will be astronaut James McDivitt, UFO expert J. Allen Hynek, science fiction writers and rooms full of Starfleet Command members garbed as such Star Trek characters as sinister Klingons, furry Tribbles and silicone-based Hordas.

With them, predicts Miss Boynton, chief organizer of Star Trek-Chicago, will be as many as 15,000 enthusiasts, paying $20 a head for the three-day convention. There will also be 60 to 80 vendors pushing buttons, Spock posters and other mementoes.

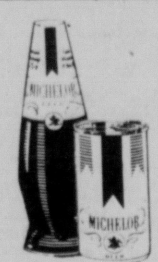

But the top Trekkie in Chicago shows little interest in the finances. "I just want it to succeed so we can do it again next year...Next year, I want it to last four days or five days."

Miss Boynton estimated the convention will cost $100,000, including $25,000 for appearance fees and expenses of 20 stars, dignitaries and other special guests.

"I haven't a large piggy bank so I had to borrow money from friends, many of them Trekkies," she said. "As for profits, I won't guess at this point. If I knew the answer to that one I would be on Wall Street in a glass office. However, if there are profits after all expenses are paid they will be used to help put on next year's convention."

Star Trek fans are well organized all over the country, though no one seems to know why. The show was pulled off the air in March 1968, though its reruns are watched with the same fanaticism today by the faithful.

The spokesman said 2,800 hourly workers are idled at South Gate, 2,900 at Ste. Therese and 1,000 at Scarborough. Subcompact cars and light trucks are assembled at the plants.

GM, which has begun 1976 model production at all its other U.S. assembly plants, also said it expects to reduce the number of indefinite layoffs of hourly workers to 63,000 by the end of the month. About 75,000 of the firm's 400,000 blue collar workers were on longterm furlough at the start of August.

OSU Program Given Law Enforcement Grant

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The Law Enforcement Assistance Administration has awarded a $155,917 grant to the Ohio State University Program for the Study of Crime and Delinquency to evaluate rehabilitation programs for adult felons.

The grant will fund a six-month national study of the cost, effectiveness and value of such residential inmate programs as halfway houses and community reintegration centers, said Dr. Harry E. Allen, program director.

Trekkies Plan Star-Filled Party

CHICAGO (AP) — The Star Ship Enterprise blasted off on its five-year mission "to explore where no man has gone before" in September 1966. At the time, Lisa Boynton was a 26-year-old short order cook in Columbus, Ohio.

The "Star Trek" television series was canceled in March 1968, but Lisa Boynton and thousands of other Trekkies, as they love to be called, haven't given up on their favorite science fiction show.

Miss Boynton, a tax consultant and a law student, has carried her Trekkie fanaticism to the ultimate end: She's assembled virtually the entire Star Trek cast for one weekend. Helping her are the 105 members of Starfleet Command, a Chicago-area Star Trek club with members aged 6 to 60.

Lucasville Inmate Stabbed

LUCASVILLE, Ohio (AP) — A 33-year-old inmate, serving a long term on variety of charges, has been found stabbed to death with a homemade knife at the Southern Ohio Correctional Facility in Lucasville.

The Department of Correction and Rehabilitation identified the apparent homicide victim as Kennert Johnson, who was serving four to 25 years.

A correction spokesman said Johnson was stabbed in the neck and chest Thursday sometime between 1 p.m. and 1:25 p.m. when his body was discovered behind bleachers in a prison gymnasium. The knife was recovered.

Johnson had been sentenced from Cuyahoga County for burglary, grand theft, forgery, carrying a concealed weapon and aggravated robbery.

He had been imprisoned since June 10, 1974, but had been in the Lucasville facility only since last May.

Johnson also served seven years in Michigan, the department spokesman said. His family was notified in Detroit.

The Highway Patrol and prison officials were investigating, but there was no apparent motive or suspect, the spokesman said.

Johnson was one of 200 inmates who had gone into the gym and yard for a recreation period at 1 p.m.

Beaming down to a life-size mockup of the Enterprise bridge on Friday, Saturday and Sunday will be stars William Shatner (Capt. Kirk), Leonard Nimoy (the pointy-eared, philosophical Mr. Spock), and crew members DeForest Kelley, James Doohan, Michelle Nichols, George Takei, Walter Keonig, Mark Lenard and Arlene Martel.

Also attending will be astronaut James McDivitt, UFO expert J. Allen Hynek, science fiction writers and rooms full of Starfleet Command members garbed as such Star Trek characters as sinister Klingons, furry Tribbles and silicone-based Hordas.

With them, predicts Miss Boynton, chief organizer of Star Trek-Chicago, will be as many as 15,000 enthusiasts, paying $20 a head for the three-day convention. There will also be 60 to 80 vendors pushing buttons, Spock posters and other mementoes.

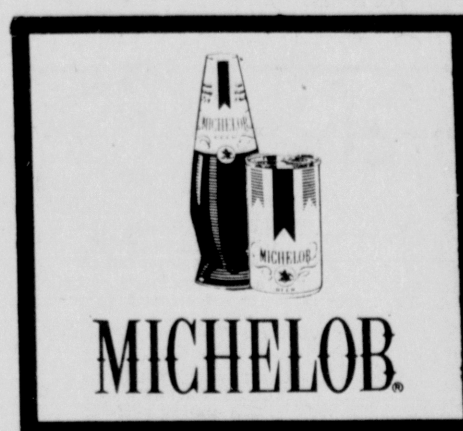

But the top Trekkie in Chicago shows little interest in the finances. "I just want it to succeed so we can do it again next year...Next year, I want it to last four days or five days."

Miss Boynton estimated the convention will cost $100,000, including $25,000 for appearance fees and expenses of 20 stars, dignitaries and other special guests.

"I haven't a large piggy bank so I had to borrow money from friends, many of them Trekkies," she said. "As for profits, I won't guess at this point. If I knew the answer to that one I would be on Wall Street in a glass office. However, if there are profits after all expenses are paid they will be used to help put on next year's convention."

Star Trek fans are well organized all over the country, though no one seems to know why. The show was pulled off the air in March 1968, though its reruns are watched with the same fanaticism today by the faithful.

Future directions for Christian education in the Episcopal Diocese of Southern Ohio are being studied with the selection of Dr. Frances Young, former coordinator for lay ministries of the national Episcopal Church as the consultant for Christian education.

DR. FRANCES YOUNG

During the last three years, Dr. Young has served as consultant for religious education in the Diocese of Hong Kong and Macao, companion diocese of Southern Ohio.

Dr. Young plans to gather together and research all data available about what is going on in the area of Christian education in parishes, regions and the diocese.

"I want to meet with people, listen to them and gather from them what has happened, what the situation is now and what the people in the diocese think should be the Christian education program in the future," she says.

Dr. Young has already talked to a number of people and says she will go outside the diocese as well to find out what others are doing. She also wants to study trends in the Episcopal Church, in other denominations and in society.

After she has analyzed Christian education she hopes to meet with diocesan leaders before making her recommendations concerning the future of Christian education.

She points to two definitions of Christian Education, the broad view encompassing the total parish education program, the other simply the church school. Personally, she believes Christian education means the total program, not just church school.

Part of her study will be to see how the various aspects of Christian education fit together.

"Evangelism and education are two main goals of the diocese. How do we fit them together?" she asks.

Dr. Young says she is impressed with the diocese's new thrust in these areas and with the many possibilities of developing both through use of Second Century Fund monies.

"Christian education has top priority in diocesan goals but it does not seem to have the attention, energy of the staff to be carried out as a top priority," she believes.

"This is a year when we can look at the past and present and at the needs and directions of the future to begin to look ahead and see how education as a first priority can be carried out, according to Dr. Young.

Dr. Young says she is delighted to be in the Diocese of Southern Ohio. "It is a great diocese and it has a great history. Southern Ohio has always been one of the creative leaders in the whole church."

While in the Diocese of Southern Ohio, Dr. Young will have the added responsibility of developing the relationship between this diocese and the Diocese of Hong Kong.

While in Hong Kong, Dr. Young was responsible for developing the religious education program which Second Century funding will now help make a reality.

Before going to Hong Kong, Dr. Young was coordinator for lay ministries of the national Episcopal Church for two years and prior to that was executive director for the General Division of Women's Work for 10 years.

Her first job, in religious education, was on the staff of the Church of the Redeemer in Baltimore. She went from there to be director of Christian education for the Diocese of California, was on the staff of the national church, returned as director of Christian education at the Baltimore church and then went back to New York City to head Women's Work.

Musicians Attend Conference

Mrs. Barbara Kibby representing Trinity Lutheran Church, and Mr. and Mrs. Gary Dean, representing Community United Methodist Church, attended the Northern Music Conference held in Grand Rapids, Mich., Aug. 11-14.

Dean studied composition, multimedia, repertoire and administration for church choirs. Mrs. Kibby participated in repertoire and voice classes as well as children's choir organization.

Mrs. Kibby and Mrs. (Mary Jane) Dean performed in the world premiere of John Peterson's cantata "Christ Is Born" directed by Peterson. The work was presented by 350 music directors from 26 states representing 25 denominations.

Sam Dalton To Speak At Camp

Sam Dalton, a lay evangelist from Denver, Colorado, will be the guest speaker at the 10:30 a.m. and 7:45 p.m. worship services Sunday at the Lancaster United Methodist Campgrounds, 2151 W. Fair Ave.

Dalton, well-known in the Lancaster area, travels extensively sharing his marvelous conversion to Christ. Sam's story, "Tell It Like It Is," is an unusual one.

He resides in Denver with his wife and three adopted Korean children.

The Ohio State University "Marimba Ensemble," under the direction of Dr. James L. Moore, will be in concert at 2:30 p.m.

Moore, head of percussion studies in the School of Music, is also a member of the Columbus Symphony, and author, clinician and editor of "Percussive Notes."

At 8 p.m. Saturday, Aug. 30, a 65-voice choir from the Lithopolis United Methodist Church will present the musical, "Come Together," written by Jimmie and Carol Owens and arranged by Ralph Carmichael.

Mary Beth Cordray is the director of the choir accompanied by Frances Heister at the piano.

Blessed is the man that endureth temptation: for when he is tried, he shall receive the crown of life, which the Lord hath promised to them that love him. James 1:12.

I have fought a good fight, I have finished my course, I have kept the faith: II Timothy 4:7.

Area Girl Chosen UPC Camper Of Year

Carol Strome of Route 5, Circleville was chosen as Girl Camper of the year for the Senior High camp of the United Pentecostal Church at Millersport.

She shares this honor with Dan Heskitt of Chillicothe who was chosen Boy Camper of the year for the Senior High camp.

The faculty, which is comprised of ministers, makes the choice based on outstanding Christian example and character. Carol will be a senior at Logan Elm High School and Dan is a senior at Ross-Pickaway Vocational School.

Carol and Dan were a part of the 286 student-body at the 1975 Camp. The emphasis of the camp is Bible Classes and evening evangelistic services, with Rev. James Roam of St. Louis, Missouri preaching each evening.

Carol is a member of the United Pentecostal Church here in Circleville and has been active in teaching Sunday School, choir and special music. Her honor was especially exciting as her brother, Craig, was chosen Boy Camper of the Junior High camp the previous week.

Also attending the camp from the local church were Dianna Imler and Tammy Kitchen. Dianna is also a senior at Logan Elm High School and Tammy is a junior at Teays Valley High School.

Wild Blue Yonder

It's just an old toy—yet in his imagination this boy can climb to supersonic heights with it.

In his fancy, he is at the controls, soaring high above the earth. One step more, and he will pilot a rocket to the moon.

It may well be that these dreams, moon and all, will someday become reality for this young man. Meantime, there is countless wonder and joy in his boyish fancies.

There should be countless wonder and joy, too, in his church experience. Non-churchgoers are apt to think that religion is a dull, dour, fearsome matter. Rather, it should be one of the most glorious parts of life.

Look deeply into your own religion. Go to the church of your choice this Sunday.

Future directions for Christian education in the Episcopal Diocese of Southern Ohio are being studied with the selection of Dr. Frances Young, former coordinator for lay ministries of the national Episcopal Church as the consultant for Christian education.

DR. FRANCES YOUNG

During the last three years, Dr. Young has served as consultant for religious education in the Diocese of Hong Kong and Macao, companion diocese of Southern Ohio. Dr. Young plans to gather together and research all data available about what is going on in the area of Christian education in parishes, regions and the diocese. "I want to meet with people, listen to them and gather from them what has happened, what the situation is now and what the people in the diocese think should be the Christian education program in the future," she says. Dr. Young has already talked to a number of people and says she will go outside the diocese as well to find out what others are doing. She also wants to study trends in the Episcopal Church, in other denominations and in society. After she has analyzed Christian education she hopes to meet with diocesan leaders before making her recommendations concerning the future of Christian education. She points to two definitions of Christian Education, the broad view encompassing the total parish education program, the other simply the church school. Personally, she believes Christian education means the total program, not just church school. Part of her study will be to see how the various aspects of Christian education fit together. "Evangelism and education are two main goals of the diocese. How do we fit them together?" she asks. Dr. Young says she is impressed with the diocese's new thrust in these areas and with the many possibilities of developing both through use of Second Century Fund monies. "Christian education has top priority in diocesan goals but it does not seem to have the attention, energy of the staff to be carried out as a top priority," she believes. "This is a year when we can look at the past and present and at the needs and directions of the future to begin to look ahead and see how education as a first priority can be carried out, according to Dr. Young. Dr. Young says she is delighted to be in the Diocese of Southern Ohio. "It is a great diocese and it has a great history. Southern Ohio has always been one of the creative leaders in the whole church." While in the Diocese of Southern Ohio, Dr. Young will have the added responsibility of developing the relationship between this diocese and the Diocese of Hong Kong. While in Hong Kong, Dr. Young was responsible for developing the religious education program which Second Century funding will now help make a reality. Before going to Hong Kong, Dr. Young was coordinator for lay ministries of the national Episcopal Church for two years and prior to that was executive director for the General Division of Women's Work for 10 years. Her first job, in religious education, was on the staff of the Church of the Redeemer in Baltimore. She went from there to be director of Christian education for the Diocese of California, was on the staff of the national church, returned as director of Christian education at the Baltimore church and then went back to New York City to head Women's Work. Musicians Attend Conference Mrs. Barbara Kibby representing Trinity Lutheran Church, and Mr. and Mrs. Gary Dean, representing Community United Methodist Church, attended the Northern Music Conference held in Grand Rapids, Mich., Aug. 11-14. Dean studied composition, multimedia, repertoire and administration for church choirs. Mrs. Kibby participated in repertoire and voice classes as well as children's choir organization. Mrs. Kibby and Mrs. (Mary Jane) Dean performed in the world premiere of John Peterson's cantata "Christ Is Born" directed by Peterson. The work was presented by 350 music directors from 26 states representing 25 denominations.

Sam Dalton To Speak At Camp

Sam Dalton, a lay evangelist from Denver, Colorado, will be the guest speaker at the 10:30 a.m. and 7:45 p.m. worship services Sunday at the Lancaster United Methodist Campgrounds, 2151 W. Fair Ave. Dalton, well-known in the Lancaster area, travels extensively sharing his marvelous conversion to Christ. Sam's story, "Tell It Like It Is," is an unusual one. He resides in Denver with his wife and three adopted Korean children. The Ohio State University "Marimba Ensemble," under the direction of Dr. James L. Moore, will be in concert at 2:30 p.m. Moore, head of percussion studies in the School of Music, is also a member of the Columbus Symphony, and author, clinician and editor of "Percussive Notes." At 8 p.m. Saturday, Aug. 30, a 65-voice choir from the Lithopolis United Methodist Church will present the musical, "Come Together," written by Jimmie and Carol Owens and arranged by Ralph Carmichael. Mary Beth Cordray is the director of the choir accompanied by Frances Heister at the piano. Blessed is the man that endureth temptation: for when he is tried, he shall receive the crown of life, which the Lord hath promised to them that love him. James 1:12. I have fought a good fight, I have finished my course, I have kept the faith: II Timothy 4:7.

Humbles Join Wycliffe Translators

Mr. and Mrs. Stephen Humble, formerly of Circleville, have joined a world-wide linguistic task force by their recent acceptance as members of Wycliffe Bible Translators.

They expect to serve as translators with Wycliffe, which works around the world to reduce aboriginal languages to written form and translate the Scripture into them.

Stephen is the son of the Rev. and Mrs. Richard G. Humble of Waverly. He attended Circleville Bible College and received his BA degree from Marion College, Marion, Indiana. He is currently attending the University of North Dakota.

Before joining Wycliffe, Humble worked as a pastor in Minneapolis, Minn. and Richland Center, Wis.

Mrs. (Patricia) Humble is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur B. McKelvey of Portsmouth. She graduated from Circleville Bible College receiving her BSL degree.

The couple has one son, Elijah. They are presently attending the Free Methodist Church in Grand Forks, North Dakota.

Wycliffe and its academic affiliate, the Summer Institute of Linguistics, are involved in translation work in more than 600 languages in nearly 30 countries around the world. Their goal is to put the Scripture into the world's remaining 3,000 unwritten languages, spoken by an estimated 200 million people.

Patronite Sees Lottery Boost

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP) — Gerald Patronite, acting director of the Ohio Lottery Commission who said his biggest current job is boosting sales, reports figures rose 9.43 per cent as the lottery began its second year.

Patronite said unofficial figures for the past week showed purchases totaled $2.39 million, or the equivalent of 4.79 million 50-cent tickets, adjusted to include the $1 Lucky Buck sales.

Earlier this week amidst a continuing controversy over allegations of irregularities, Patronite said in response to a question that his main effort now is to surpass Michigan's $143 million annual sales and Pennsylvania's $117 million. Ohio's first-year sales were about $108 million, he said.

Americans Disregarding Past?

NEW YORK (AP) — To understand today is to be acquainted with yesterday. To comprehend a single word is only from its previously given meanings. Even to know yourself is to know the prior tempering that made you. The "before" makes the "now" and the past the present.

These are stock philosophical truisms. But there are signs in modern America that the culture is tending to disregard its past substance, to become a "cut-flower civilization" severed from root values and focused only on influences of the moment.

Contemporary education concentrates increasingly on "specialized knowledge" to serve corporate, technological needs in a commercialized society, says noted sociologist Robert Bellah of the University of California. He adds that as this kind of knowledge proliferates, "meaning collapses."

The erosion of "meaning is the chief threat to culture," he told a recent interdenominational gathering here of church educators.

Several indications have turned up lately in the educational world of shrinking interest in cumulative insights from the past and evaluation of life's significance. The American Philosophical Association reports that 500 of the 8,000 academic philosophers in the United States have lost their teaching jobs this year.

An additional 2,000 recent doctoral graduates in philosophy are unable to find positions, the association says, and some have turned to such jobs as clerking in stores or driving cabs. There apparently is declining demand in the present climate for "thinkers" about basic meanings.

Historians also have become a surplus on the market. At a recent meeting in Boston of the Organization of American Historians, it was reported that about 600 historians with newly earned doctorates are seeking college and university posts this year, but only 30 openings are in sight.

Both these disciplines, philosophy and history, are closely linked with religious faith, since recognition of transcendent reality is based both on accumulated reasoning and ex-

Gallipolis Hospital Probe Set

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Independent investigators will look into conditions at Gallipolis State Institute, the mental health and mental retardation department has announced.

Director Timothy B. Moritz said Wednesday union officials and the superintendent of the institution, Bernard Niehm, had agreed to the investigation at the mental hospital. "We will request a panel of outside people to look into specific charges and general adequacy of care at GSI as well as any act of malpractice," Moritz said.

The mental health director attended Wednesday a four-hour presentation by the Ohio Civil Service Employees Association (OCSEA), detailing alleged abuses at the institution, in some cases possibly involving deaths of patients, according to the mental health department.

Moritz said he would ask for an investigation by the Ohio State Medical Association, the Ohio Legal Rights Service, Ohio State Board of Nursing, the Ohio Pharmacy Board and the Holzer Medical Center of Gallipolis.

"We have known for a long time that GSI is seriously substandard and grossly inadequate in medical and allied areas," Moritz said.

Moritz said there were only two licensed physicians, currently working at the southeastern Ohio institution.

He said he would ask the State Controlling Board on Sept. 2 for a supplemental appropriation to allow for the hiring of more doctors.

periences through history. Sagging interest in those trends cuts at the structure of religion.

The Rev. Dr. Roger L. Shinn, of New York's Union Theological Seminary, says, "We live in one of those times when it is not easy to put things together."

And putting things together is what makes for truth, the thinkers say, the parts with the whole, the foregoing with the subsequent, the memory with the moment, the "island" with the "main" including the long accumulation of events and decisions that flow through time into the still unfolding present and future.

It's that old principle that even in a "new generation" you can't discern what's "new" without awareness of what's "old," that you can't learn more without learning what's already been learned, that finding your identity demands integrating your antecedents and that you can't take any stand without readied ground to stand on.

Ohio Jobless Claims Dip

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — First-time claims for unemployment compensation in Ohio took a large dip for the week ending Aug. 16 with 16,993 applicants, the Ohio Bureau of Employment Services said today.

That number compares to 26,611 the week before and 11,539 for an average week in August 1974.

During the week ending Aug. 2, 31,771 persons applied for initial benefits.

Continued claims for one week or more also dropped for the week ending Aug. 9 and were expected to decline when final figures are in for last week.

For the week ending Aug. 9, 185,380 persons received benefits compared to 185,607 the week before and an estimated 179,500 would be given compensation for the week ending Aug. 16.

Claims under the extended state and federal program also have leveled with 48,514 for the week ending Aug. 9 and about 48,660 for the past week.

Initial claims in the eight largest counties dropped by almost 4,000 to 7,629 from the week before. Continued claims also decreased by about 7,000 in those counties from the 86,647 the week before.

Claims for unemployment benefits for one week or more in Ohio's other 80 counties rose by 2,000 from the 98,733 the week of Aug. 9.

Humbles Join Wycliffe Translators

Mr. and Mrs. Stephen Humble, formerly of Circleville, have joined a world-wide linguistic task force by their recent acceptance as members of Wycliffe Bible Translators.

They expect to serve as translators with Wycliffe, which works around the world to reduce aboriginal languages to written form and translate the Scripture into them.

Stephen is the son of the Rev. and Mrs. Richard G. Humble of Waverly. He attended Circleville Bible College and received his BA degree from Marion College, Marion, Indiana. He is currently attending the University of North Dakota.

Before joining Wycliffe, Humble worked as a pastor in Minneapolis, Minn. and Richland Center, Wis.

Mrs. (Patricia) Humble is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur B. McKelvey of Portsmouth. She graduated from Circleville Bible College receiving her BSL degree.

The couple has one son, Elijah. They are presently attending the Free Methodist Church in Grand Forks, North Dakota.

Wycliffe and its academic affiliate, the Summer Institute of Linguistics, are involved in translation work in more than 600 languages in nearly 30 countries around the world. Their goal is to put the Scripture into the world's remaining 3,000 unwritten languages, spoken by an estimated 200 million people.

Patronite Sees Lottery Boost

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP) — Gerald Patronite, acting director of the Ohio Lottery Commission who said his biggest current job is boosting sales, reports figures rose 9.43 per cent as the lottery began its second year.

Patronite said unofficial figures for the past week showed purchases totaled $2.39 million, or the equivalent of 4.79 million 50-cent tickets, adjusted to include the $1 Lucky Buck sales.

Earlier this week amidst a continuing controversy over allegations of irregularities, Patronite said in response to a question that his main effort now is to surpass Michigan's $143 million annual sales and Pennsylvania's $117 million. Ohio's first-year sales were about $108 million, he said.

Miners' Walkout Remains Unsettled; See Interference

CHARLESTON, W.Va. (AP) — A wildcat walkout by more than 30,000 coal miners in three states continued today, with many of the strikers planning to mass here to protest what they claim is interference by the federal courts in union affairs.

At the heart of the 13-day-old strike is concern by miners over judicial processes and what they contend is the slow implementation of new grievance procedures.

Miners argue that coal companies refuse to arbitrate disagreements promptly, preferring instead to rush into federal court when workers strike.

At a meeting in Danville Thursday, more than 300 miners voted to attend the Charleston rally. A spokesman said the miners want a stop to all federal court injunctions, a right-to-strike clause and amnesty for persons fired, fined or jailed during the present strike.

Leaflets requesting the same demands have been circulated throughout the coalfields this week.

"They're not going back to work until these demands are presented to them," said one miner at the meeting.

The coal industry says the walkout is cutting production by 300,000 tons a day in West Virginia and 100,000 tons per day in Kentucky. No estimate was available for Ohio.

The miners say an opinion issued

Aug. 11 by U.S. District Court Judge K.K. Hall supports their point.

"The court finds it distasteful being placed in the position of being the policeman or disciplinarian for the coal companies all the time...." Hall wrote a coal company attorney.

"I think you might make your client and perhaps some of their associates aware of the fact that this court has just about reached the limit. If this continues this way, every coal company will come in every morning for their morning order from the court."

But Hall and other federal judges have continued to issue temporary restraining orders against strikers. The most recent injunction came Thursday at the request of the Kanawha Coal Operators Association. The strike began Aug. 11 in Logan and Boone counties when 34,000 miners walked off the job over the firing of two miners.

The strike escalated with complaints by miners that grievance procedures in their 1974 contract were not being implemented quickly enough.

It worked its way Thursday into Pike County, Ky., and about 1,200 men joined sympathy walkouts in two southeastern Ohio counties.

Picketing has closed most mines in Districts 17 and 29, covering West Virginia's southern half, and has idled operations at three Southern Ohio Coal Co. mines in Meigs and Vinton counties in Ohio.

Ohio State Basketball Coach Is Rotary Speaker

BASKETBALL DAY—The Rotarians heard their annual review of the OSU Basketball team from Coach Fred Taylor. Rotarian Bob Call presented Taylor to the club. In the picture are: Call, Taylor, Bill Hoskett, former OSU player, and Dr. Bob Blackburn.

This weeks Rotary Club meeting featured OSU Basketball Coach Fred Taylor as its guest speaker. With him were Bill Hoskett, one of his former players, and Dr. Bob Blackburn.

Bob Call introduced the speaker, and named Taylor the "Dean of Coaches" in the Big Ten Conference.

Taylor remarked about the individual players, and their potential to play championship basketball. New squad members include three 6 foot 6 inch freshmen that will be big assets to the team.

Taylor discussed some of the new rule changes that affect recruiting and the limitations it puts on the program. He said there will be fewer men on the road due to cutbacks in budgets and reductions on the coaching staffs.

CHS Student Council Plans Open House

Council members will conduct a tour of the school, explain proper procedures and answer questions.

Miss Carol Parker is advisor of the council.

Rotarians guests this week were: Cheryl Kirkwood, John Stout, Kevin Wood, Ed Walters, Bo Stevenson, John Neville and Jim Bailey.

Man Not Hurt As Truck Hit By Train

A truck owned by the Culligan Water Conditioning Co., 152 W. Main St., was demolished 1:17 p.m. Thursday when it was struck by a switch engine on N & W Railroad tracks at the S. Canal St. crossing.

Driver of the truck, Edward Thompson Jr., 44, 513 E. Franklin St., was not hurt.

Thompson told Circleville Police that he was in the process of backing the truck out of the Container Corp. parking lot when the engine struck the vehicle in the side.

The truck was pushed 40 feet from point of impact, where it became wedged between the switch engine and a railroad car that was parked on an adjacent track.

Thompson said he did not see the engine until impact. Police noted that there were no switchmen at the driveway crossing.

Hello there! TGIF day again and another week closer to Fall. This Sunday, Aug. 24, is the start of the annual Pickaway Flyers Corn Roast and Fly-In Funday.

The festivities start at 1 p.m., but come early to avoid getting here late. There will be enough corn and hotdogs to fill the biggest appetite and some of the craziest flying seen in these here parts since I learned to fly.

Pilots and passengers will be attempting to drop 2½ pound sacks of sand into a small (very small) swimming pool from an altitude of 400 feet.

After surviving that, they'll attempt, while flying, to break a balloon, placed in the center of the runway, with the main wheel of the aircraft.

Now doesn't that sound like fun - if you're just watching from a safe distance?

The contests are open to all pilots and the festivities are open to everyone.

Oh, I almost forgot. The Pickaway Flyers will also be selling raffle tickets on a 1975 Rupp 100 trail bike. So get there early to get the winning ticket.

There is no charge for admission or parking. Just buy lots of hotdogs and corn from the Pickaway Flyers. Contestants will, however, be charged a fee for the different contests with cash prizes for the winners.

Last week I forgot to mention the election of the Pickaway Flyers secretary, Henri Jonas. Sorry, Henri. She's doing such a great job, I don't know how I missed her.

Want to hear about our phone booth? Well, seeing is better than hearing, so come on out. It was installed Thursday, Aug. 21.

We'd like to thank Mr. Bob Wopat of the Marion office of General Telephone, and Bill Anderson of the Circleville office for their help, and I sure wish somebody would give me a dime so I can call home.

So, we'll see you Funday the 24th here at the airport.

Sander Said Mentally Ill

REDDING, Calif. (AP) — A defense witness at the Robert Paul Sander murder trial, psychiatrist Richard Komisaruk, says Sander was mentally ill March 2 when five persons were slain by rifle fire at Smith River.

Sander, a 24-year-old former employee of a Cincinnati department store, has pleaded innocent and innocent by reason of insanity to murder charges.

In testimony Thursday, Komisaruk said Sander didn't realize the consequence of his acts.

The Oakland psychiatrist added under prosecution questioning that he was against the death penalty and did not want to see any person be executed.

Outside the courtroom, Philip Schaffer, Sander's defense attorney, said that the entire defense is based on Sander's alleged diminished capacity.

In previous testimony, three court-appointed psychiatrists said that Sander had diminished capacity.

Schaffer said the question of diminished capacity could not affect guilt or innocence, but it could affect the degree of the crime and consequently the penalty.

Schaffer said he would not call Sander to the stand. He said he expected to conclude his case Friday by calling another psychiatrist, Martin Blinder of San Francisco.

The coal industry says the walkout is cutting production by 300,000 tons a day in West Virginia and 100,000 tons per day in Kentucky. No estimate was available for Ohio.

The miners say an opinion issued

Aug. 11 by U.S. District Court Judge K.K. Hall supports their point.

"The court finds it distasteful being placed in the position of being the policeman or disciplinarian for the coal companies all the time...." Hall wrote a coal company attorney.

"I think you might make your client and perhaps some of their associates aware of the fact that this court has just about reached the limit. If this continues this way, every coal company will come in every morning for their morning order from the court."

But Hall and other federal judges have continued to issue temporary restraining orders against strikers. The most recent injunction came Thursday at the request of the Kanawha Coal Operators Association.

The strike began Aug. 11 in Logan and Boone counties when 34,000 miners walked off the job over the firing of two miners.

The strike escalated with complaints by miners that grievance procedures in their 1974 contract were not being implemented quickly enough.

It worked its way Thursday into Pike County, Ky., and about 1,200 men joined sympathy walkouts in two southeastern Ohio counties.

Picketing has closed most mines in Districts 17 and 29, covering West Virginia's southern half, and has idled operations at three Southern Ohio Coal Co. mines in Meigs and Vinton counties in Ohio.

Ohio State Basketball Coach Is Rotary Speaker

BASKETBALL DAY—The Rotarians heard their annual review of the OSU Basketball team from Coach Fred Taylor. Rotarian Bob Call presented Taylor to the club. In the picture are: Call, Taylor, Bill Hoskett, former OSU player, and Dr. Bob Blackburn.

This week's Rotary Club meeting featured OSU Basketball Coach Fred Taylor as its guest speaker. With him were Bill Hoskett, one of his former players, and Dr. Bob Blackburn.

Bob Call introduced the speaker, and named Taylor the "Dean of Coaches" in the Big Ten Conference.

Taylor remarked about the individual players, and their potential to play championship basketball. New squad members include three 6 foot 6 inch freshmen that will be big assets to the team.

Taylor discussed some of the new rule changes that affect recruiting and the limitations it puts on the program. He said there will be fewer men on the road due to cutbacks in budgets and reductions on the coaching staffs.

Man Not Hurt As Truck Hit By Train

A truck owned by the Culligan Water Conditioning Co., 152 W. Main St., was demolished 1:17 p.m. Thursday when it was struck by a switch engine on N & W Railroad tracks at the S. Canal St. crossing.

Driver of the truck, Edward Thompson Jr., 44, 513 E. Franklin St., was not hurt.

Thompson told Circleville Police that he was in the process of backing the truck out of the Container Corp. parking lot when the engine struck the vehicle in the side.

The truck was pushed 40 feet from point of impact, where it became wedged between the switch engine and a railroad car that was parked on an adjacent track.

Thompson said he did not see the engine until impact. Police noted that there were no switchmen at the driveway crossing.

Hello there! TGIF day again and another week closer to Fall. This Sunday, Aug. 24, is the start of the annual Pickaway Flyers Corn Roast and Fly-In Funday.

The festivities start at 1 p.m., but come early to avoid getting here late. There will be enough corn and hotdogs to fill the biggest appetite and some of the craziest flying seen in these here parts since I learned to fly.

Pilots and passengers will be attempting to drop 2½ pound sacks of sand into a small (very small) swimming pool from an altitude of 400 feet.

After surviving that, they'll attempt, while flying, to break a balloon, placed in the center of the runway, with the main wheel of the aircraft.

Now doesn't that sound like fun - if you're just watching from a safe distance?

The contests are open to all pilots and the festivities are open to everyone.

Oh, I almost forgot. The Pickaway Flyers will also be selling raffle tickets on a 1975 Rupp 100 trail bike. So get there early to get the winning ticket.

There is no charge for admission or parking. Just buy lots of hotdogs and corn from the Pickaway Flyers. Contestants will, however, be charged a fee for the different contests with cash prizes for the winners.

Last week I forgot to mention the election of the Pickaway Flyers secretary, Henri Jonas. Sorry, Henri. She's doing such a great job, I don't know how I missed her.

Want to hear about our phone booth? Well, seeing is better than hearing, so come on out. It was installed Thursday, Aug. 21.

We'd like to thank Mr. Bob Wopat of the Marion office of General Telephone, and Bill Anderson of the Circleville office for their help, and I sure wish somebody would give me a dime so I can call home.

So, we'll see you Funday the 24th here at the airport.

Sander Said Mentally Ill

REDDING, Calif. (AP) — A defense witness at the Robert Paul Sander murder trial, psychiatrist Richard Komisaruk, says Sander was mentally ill March 2 when five persons were slain by rifle fire at Smith River.

Sander, a 24-year-old former employee of a Cincinnati department store, has pleaded innocent and innocent by reason of insanity to murder charges.

In testimony Thursday, Komisaruk said Sander didn't realize the consequence of his acts.

The Oakland psychiatrist added under prosecution questioning that he was against the death penalty and did not want to see any person be executed.

Outside the courtroom, Philip Schafer, Sander's defense attorney, said that the entire defense is based on Sander's alleged diminished capacity.

In previous testimony, three court-appointed psychiatrists said that Sander had diminished capacity.

Schafer said the question of diminished capacity could not affect guilt or innocence, but it could affect the degree of the crime and consequently the penalty.

Schafer said he would not call Sander to the stand. He said he expected to conclude his case Friday by calling another psychiatrist, Martin Blinder of San Francisco.

Willie's Dillies

By BILL MCGAFFNEY
Herald Sports Editor

We have been busy as a butcher selling T-Bone steaks for 50 cents this past week and it looks like it is just going to get busier as the season football openers roll around.

It has been picture taking time for us as we prepare to get our team pictures and the "Meet the ----" photos.

It has also been a time for renewing acquaintances with coaches and a fine bunch of young men who comprise the various county teams.

We didn't have a chance to do it last year as a funny thing happened to us on the way and it took eleven months to get over it. But, we have been back for quite awhile now and are anxious to get back into the middle of the gridiron picture.

Its like they say--You really don't appreciate things and miss them until someone or something takes them away from you.

There is an excitement in the air as we visit the schools and watch these staunch young gladiators going through their paces in preparation for Sept. 5 and the kickoff that gets everything underway for another season.

All the schools have been hard at practice and from our observations, it looks like we are going to have some pretty good football teams in the area--But don't we always.

In case you haven't had a chance to visit the practice fields and watch the boys work, then you can take a good look at your favorite team tomorrow morning.

All four area schools will hold scrimmage games 10 a.m. tomorrow on their home fields.

Circleville will be at home to Groveport at the Red and Black field. This game will also be of interest to Teays Valley people as the Vikings meet Groveport in the season opener.

Teays Valley will host Columbus North, Logan Elm will be at home with Adena and we haven't been able to come up with Westfall's opponent yet--We think it might either be Liberty Union or Amanda-Clearcreek but are not quite sure.

Its a nice way to spend a Saturday morning and to let the young athletes know that the fans are behind them.

Hope you all turn out to see them go.

Our "fearless" forecast--It looks like the "peanut butter and jelly kid," Al Geiberger could sandwich in a win in the Tournament Players Championship.

Until next time, have a nice day--be a good sport.

Sparky Sees More Manager Changes

PITTSBURGH (AP)—Cincinnati Reds Manager Sparky Anderson predicted that as many as five more major league managers may lose their jobs.

Anderson, whose team was off Thursday enjoying a comfortable lead in the National League West, commented on the recent firings of five managers.

"There will be more," said Anderson, "maybe as many as five. If the San Francisco Giants are sold, Wes Westrum will be in trouble," Anderson predicted. "And, if the White Sox are sold, Chuck Tanner could be in trouble."

But Anderson felt that Ralph Houk was safe in Detroit despite his problems there.

"Oh, no. He's Jim Campbell's man," said Anderson. But then speculated on rumors that Campbell might lose his job. "Hmm, crazy isn't it? Then Houk would be in trouble."

Managers fired this year include Jack McKeon at Kansas City, Billy Martin at Texas, Bill Virdon with the New York Yankees, Yogi Berra of the Mets and Anderson's close friend, Preston Gomez, at Houston.

Martin was hired by the Yankees,

Tigers Scrimmage Groveport Here

Circleville's Tigers will meet the Groveport Cruisers in a controlled scrimmage game 10 a.m. Saturday on the Red and Black's field.

There is no charge and fans are asked to sit in the stands on the press box side of the field.

CHS Girls Tennis Team Holds Tryouts

All candidates for the Circleville High School girls' tennis team should be at the high school courts from 3:30 p.m. to 5:30 p.m. Monday.

They should bring their own equipment and come dressed to play tennis.

Logan Elm Boosters To Meet Monday

Logan Elm Boosters Club will meet 8 p.m. Monday at the high school.

Roger Egan, president, urges all members and fans to attend as plans will be made for the coming season.

The football team at Rochester, N.Y., is known as the Yellow Jackets.

Virdon by Houston and Berra is going as an assistant to the Yankees.

Four of the five managers hired to replace those fired have been fired elsewhere: Whitey Herzog to Kansas City formerly in Texas; Frank Lucchessi, Texas, formerly at Philadelphia and Virdon and Martin.

"A guy like Gene Mauch-of Montreal-is under .500 but he's been around for 16 years," said Anderson. He'll always have a job if he wants one."

Anderson said that for some teams, the manager is very important.

"Bill Virdon is a damn good manager," Anderson said, adding that Virdon does not pamper players. He is a fighter, Anderson said.

Geiberger Scrambles To TPC Lead

FORT WORTH, Tex. (AP) — "It was," smiled Al Geiberger, "sort of a funny round." Not funny ha, ha. Funny weird.

He missed greens, visited bunkers, romped through the wilderness, muffed short putts, explored the "boondocks" and shot a remarkable four-under-par 66 Thursday.

He tamed Colonial's terrors with birdies on four of his five closing holes and seized the first round lead in the $250,000 Tournament Players Golf Championship.

"I was very lucky," he grinned.

The lanky sharpshooter speared an 18-foot putt at the last hole to sweep past Jack Nicklaus, Hale Irwin and Bob Dickson in the race for the $50,000 grand prize.

That trio was in at 67.

Nicklaus, the defending champion, finished dramatically four hours before Geiberger and held the lead alone most of the sultry, serene afternoon.

Big Jack knifed through the par 35-35-70 Colonial course like a killer shark, slashing four shots from par through 16 flawless holes.

He squandered a bit of glory in a jungle at the 17th hole, taking a double bogey six, then struck back with a near eagle at the 434-yard 18th green for a sparkling 67.

"I played a fine round of golf," said

Nicklaus somewhat quizzically. "I really did."

Irwin, playing with Geiberger and Arnold Palmer, also committed but one major miscue, and it cost him a share of the lead. He was four under par at the time.

"I tried to play smart golf by hitting a three wood off the tee at No. 6 but I smarted it right into the left rough," he confessed. It cost him a bogey.

Dickson, admittedly floundering about in "quite an off year," said he entered the first round totally without confidence but that his game suddenly and somewhat mysteriously crystallized.

"I was playing with Lale Douglass and Dave Stockton and they said they've never seen me swing so smoothly," Dickson said.

A stroke back at 68 were Buddy Allin, Jim Weichers and Mike Wynn. The game's superstars meanwhile drifted back in the pack as the 100-plus temperatures heavy rough and Colonial's deceptive charms commanded a harsh toll.

Palmer and Gary Player remained in contention with one-over-par 71s, Billy Casper and British Open champ Tom Watson were at 73, and the 75 list included Lee Trevino and Tom Weiskopf.

Johnny Miller withdrew with a sore wrist.

Birds Finally Top Rangers, 4-2

By BRUCE LOWITT

AP Sports Writer

By the time Baltimore got around to winning the ballgame, it was too late for Jim Palmer.

The Orioles' ace right-hander, gunning to become the major leagues' first 20-game winner this year, gunned down Texas in masterful fashion for 12 innings Thursday night.

But it took Baltimore two more innings to pull out a 4-2 victory.

In the rest of the American League, Oakland beat Milwaukee 5-2, Cleveland defeated Kansas City 7-3 and Chicago edged New York 2-1. In the lone National League game, Chicago shut out Los Angeles 7-0.

"Those were the two best pitchers in the league out there," Baltimore's Brooks Robinson said of Palmer and Gaylord Perry. Both Palmer and Perry allowed two runs and struck out six batters in their stints — but while Palmer allowed only five hits in 12 innings, Perry was bounced around for 13 hits in his 11 innings.

Still, a tie is a tie and nobody's a winner until somebody breaks it. Robinson did that in the 14th with a double off Steve Foucault after Tim Nordbrook had walked. Then Robinson came home with an insurance run on Ellie Hendricks' single. The victory shaved Boston's AL East lead over the Orioles to 6½ games.

"Perry wasn't sharp but he still kept us away from the plate," Robinson said. "Palmer? He's been unreal. It's a shame he didn't get No. 20."

A's 5, Brewers 2

Jim Holt drove in two runs and scored two to lead Oakland past Milwaukee, a victory that handed the Brewers their sixth straight defeat and enabled the A's to widen their AL West lead over Kansas City to 6½ games.

Indians 7, Royals 3

Frank Robinson noted that Jackie Brown had been 4-0 against Kansas City last year when he'd pitched for Texas. So he started Brown against the Royals and was rewarded with a victory and a route-going performance.

Homers by Oscar Gamble and

George Hendrick and Frank Duffy's two-run single made his job easy.

White Sox 2, Yankees 1

Jerry Hairston's tie-breaking single for the White Sox in the ninth inning gave Jim Kaat his 18th victory of the year and handed the Yankees their fifth straight defeat.

Deron Johnson singled with one away and moved to second on Bill Melton's two-out infield hit before scoring on Hairston's single to center. Kaat needed last-out help from Rich Gossage, who chalked up his 19th save.

Cubs 7, Dodgers 0

Rick and Paul Reuschel of the Cubs combined for the first shutout by two brothers in modern baseball history by teaming for a six-hitter against Los Angeles. Rick Monday's two-run homer and Jose Cardenal's two-run double paced Chicago's attack.

Rick pitched the first 6 1-3 innings before a blister on his right hand forced him out and brought Paul in. "I was just trying to get them out," said Paul. "I just didn't want to lose it for him."

Browns Remain A Question Mark

KENT, Ohio (AP) — The Cleveland Browns are a question mark and no one knows it better than new coach Forrest Gregg.

The former Green Bay Packer all-pro offensive tackle has taken the reins of a club which in 1974 had its first losing season since 1956, finishing last in the American Conference's tough Central Division with a 4-10 record.

"We've got our work cut out for us," Gregg said when he was named as the fourth head coach in the history of the Cleveland franchise.

Now, four weeks into the preseason with a 1-1 record, Gregg knows even better what he faces.

"We've got to have improvement in nearly every area," he explained with a grave smile. I'd say we've come along pretty well and we have progressed some in the areas where we need it the most.

"Overall, we're pretty well on schedule," Gregg added.

Asked what areas he felt needed the most improvement, Gregg said, "I'd rather not get specific right now, but I'd say we've got to score more points and we've got to get better performance from the defense and the special teams, particularly the kicking teams."

Bengals Offense 'One Bright Spot'

WILMINGTON, Ohio (AP)— Cincinnati quarterback Ken Anderson calls the offensive line "the one bright spot" in camp this season as the team faced its annual roughing up exhibition game at the hands of the Green Bay Packers.

Anderson will be depending largely on that offensive line in view of the Green Bay pass rush that blew Cincinnati out of the game in the final minutes 26-24 last year.

Anderson finally got on track last week when the Bengals beat the Buffalo Bills after dropping preseason contests to Miami and Washington.

"To me," said Anderson after the victory over Buffalo, "the highlight of the game was the way our offensive line played. It really had great charge. On the running plays it seemed we were always operating on their side of the line."

"The one bright spot of training camp so far has been the offensive line."

"But we can't look back, we've got to look ahead. We've got Green Bay next Saturday and we've got to get better each week."

The exhibition games with the Packers since 1971 ironically have affected Cincinnati's efforts in the regular season because of the injuries the Bengals have suffered.

The Bengals lost safety Ken Dyer in 1971. He suffered a broken neck in a collision with running back John Brockington and never played again.

The 1973 game cost Cincinnati quarterback Virgil Carter a broken collar bone, running back Doug Dressler a knee injury and receiver Charley Joiner cracked ribs. Joiner, however, was able to return late in the season.

Last season, defensive tackle Mike Reid suffered a knee injury but missed only the opening game with Cleveland. Reid retired this year.

Cincinnati did not lose a player in the 1972 game, however.

Cincinnati and Green Bay are even

The Browns defense ranked 23rd among the 26 teams in the National Football League last season. But the addition of several rookies and maturation of some of the team's young veterans could turn it around.

Defensive tackles Jerry Sherk and Walter Johnson, middle linebacker Bob Babich and strong safety Van Green, all veterans, give the Browns proved strength up the middle.

And defensive line coach Dick Modzelewski is sold on rookie defensive ends Mack Mitchell and Stan Lewis. Mitchell is 6-foot-7½, 250-pounds and Lewis 6-4, 246 pounds and both could earn starting positions.

Rookie linebacker Dick Ambrose and first-year cornerback Tony Peters also could work their way into starting roles, giving the Browns a big boost.

On offense, the Browns failed to move the ball consistently last season either on the ground or in the air. But Gregg is counting on a bevy of young running backs and receivers and the settling of Mike Phipps or young Brian Sipes at quarterback to remedy that.

Phipps, a five-year veteran from Purdue, has the starting job but is being pushed by third-year man Sipes. Both have strong accurate arms and will have the likes of veteran tight end at two victories each in exhibition games but the Bengals are looking for spirited play from the Packers behind rookie coach and former quarterback great Bart Starr. The Packers are 2-0 in exhibition.

Logan Elm Girls Set Conditioning For Volleyball

Logan Elm high school girls interested in trying out for one of the many spots on the Brave volleyball team should attend conditioning and practice sessions next week.

Sessions will be held Monday through Friday from 9 to 11 a.m. in the Logan Elm High School gymnasium.

Tryouts for the team will be held later, according to Coach Kathi Thompson, who needs players for both the varsity and reserve squads.

LL Major Stars Edge McDermott

Circleville Little League Major All-Stars edged McDermott of Portsmouth, 8-7, in the loser's bracket of the Chillicothe tournament.

The win pits Circleville against Picketon 2 p.m. Saturday at Chillicothe. The Circleville Stars will play at 8 p.m. today in the loser's bracket of the Ashville tournament.

Jerry Ogan, Brian Davis and Jack Heeter teamed up to hurl the victory.

Brad Fisher belted a double and single for Circleville, Jerry Ogan rapped two singles, Brian Davis, Tim Woods, Jim Snyder and Bob Steele each had a single while Fred Styers slammed a double.

Princeton's football team plays the same nine teams the Tigers met in 1974.

Milt Morin and former New England Patriots wide receiver Reggie Rucker to throw to.

Fleet rookie wide receiver Willie Miller has been the most impressive end so far this season, but the Browns quarterbacks can also choose among Billy Lefear (moved from running back), rookies Willie Armstead and Oscar Roan and 1974 starter Steve Holden.

The running attack is led by swift Greg Pruitt, a dangerous and exciting runner, and veteran fullback Ken Brown. Rookie Larry Poole, another speedster, looks like the best bet to help Cleveland's attack in a hurry.

Injuries have hampered several of the Browns, including Rucker and Holden. And veteran free safety Thom Darden has been lost for the year with a knee injury.

Darden also worked with Pruitt last season to give the Browns an exciting punt return duo, but his place likely will be taken by his replacement at free safety Eddie Brown or Poole.

The Browns should find out very quickly if their rebuilding hopes have any merit. They open the regular season with games against Cincinnati, Minnesota and Pittsburgh.

All candidates for the Amanda-Clearcreek Junior High football team will get free physical examinations 7:15 p.m. Tuesday at the high school.

Harness driver Joe O'Brien once won 11 races in one day at the same track.

Dick Plummer Takes Lead In Ohio Open

MIDDLETOWN, Ohio (AP) — Dick Plummer pulled off two near miracle shots in three holes Thursday for the Ohio Open golf lead.

The Cincinnati professional sank a 60-foot nine iron shot for a spectacular eagle three on the nine hole.

Two holes later, his six-iron approach landed six inches from the cup to salvage a par. Such shotmaking helped the 1973 Ohio Open winner carve out a five-under-par 67.

Plummer, 41, broke into a big grin when asked about his eagle.

"I was just trying to chip close. The hole got in the way of the ball. You can sure save a lot of strokes that way," said the Camargo Country Club pro.

"At 11 I had a terrible drive into some bushes. I had to play backwards on my second shot. Then I hit the six iron like this," said Plummer, holding his hands six inches apart.

Plummer was a scant shot ahead of new pro Todd Crandall of Ashtabula, but predicted, "I'll be in if I shoot three 72s, it would win."

Plummer's wild round included five birdies and two bogeys. Crandall was much more consistent with his four birds and 14 pars.

Al Holbert Goes After Race Victory

LEXINGTON, Ohio (AP) — Al Holbert is on the threshold of his greatest auto racing payday, $26,700, if he can win the six-hour endurance race for grand touring cars Sunday at Mid-Ohio.

The 28-year-old Warrington, Pa., foreign car dealer has earned the pole position because he won a GT race at Mid-Ohio in June. He drives a Porsche Carrera.

In a bid for another triumph over the twisting 2.4-mile road course, Holbert has chosen as his codriver Elliott Forbes-Robinson of La Crescenta, Calif.

"Because of the money and prestige involved," said Holbert, "there is nothing more important right now than preparing our Porsche to its utmost capabilities."

Carson Baird, 36, a Laurel, Md., race car builder, will start from the pole in Saturday's companion six-hour endurance test for racing stock sedans.

Baird has selected Charlie Kemp, 37-year-old veteran from Jackson, Miss., to help drive his Dodge Colt. Baird gained the No. 1 spot because of his June victory in another MidOhio endurance event.

The top 10 finishers in those June races were guaranteed the top starting positions in this weekend's grid.

The Saturday race begins at 4 p.m. and the Sunday event at 1 p.m. EDT.

Willie's Dillies

By BILL MCGAFFNEY
Herald Sports Editor

We have been busy as a butcher selling T-Bone steaks for 50 cents this past week and it looks like it is just going to get busier as the season football openers roll around.

It has been picture taking time for us as we prepare to get our team pictures and the "Meet the ----" photos.

It has also been a time for renewing acquaintances with coaches and a fine bunch of young men who comprise the various county teams.

We didn't have a chance to do it last year as a funny thing happened to us on the way and it took eleven months to get over it. But, we have been back for quite awhile now and are anxious to get back into the middle of the gridiron picture.

Its like they say--You really don't appreciate things and miss them until someone or something takes them away from you.

There is an excitement in the air as we visit the schools and watch these staunch young gladiators going through their paces in preparation for Sept. 5 and the kickoff that gets everything underway for another season.

All the schools have been hard at practice and from our observations, it looks like we are going to have some pretty good football teams in the area--But don't we always.

In case you haven't had a chance to visit the practice fields and watch the boys work, then you can take a good look at your favorite team tomorrow morning.

All four area schools will hold scrimmage games 10 a.m. tomorrow on their home fields.

Circleville will be at home to Groveport at the Red and Black field. This game will also be of interest to Teays Valley people as the Vikings meet Groveport in the season opener.

Teays Valley will host Columbus North, Logan Elm will be at home with Adena and we haven't been able to come up with Westfall's opponent yet--We think it might either be Liberty Union or Amanda-Clearcreek but are not quite sure.

Its a nice way to spend a Saturday morning and to let the young athletes know that the fans are behind them.

Hope you all turn out to see them go.

Our "fearless" forecast--It looks like the "peanut butter and jelly kid," Al Geiberger could sandwich in a win in the Tournament Players Championship.

Until next time, have a nice day--be a good sport.

Sparky Sees More Manager Changes

PITTSBURGH (AP)—Cincinnati Reds Manager Sparky Anderson predicted that as many as five more major league managers may lose their jobs.

Anderson, whose team was off Thursday enjoying a comfortable lead in the National League West, commented on the recent firings of five managers.

"There will be more," said Anderson, "maybe as many as five. If the San Francisco Giants are sold, Wes Westrum will be in trouble," Anderson predicted. "And, if the White Sox are sold, Chuck Tanner could be in trouble."

But Anderson felt that Ralph Houk was safe in Detroit despite his problems there.

"Oh, no. He's Jim Campbell's man," said Anderson. But then speculated on rumors that Campbell might lose his job. "Hmm, crazy isn't it? Then Houk would be in trouble."

Managers fired this year include Jack McKeon at Kansas City, Billy Martin at Texas, Bill Virdon with the New York Yankees, Yogi Berra of the Mets and Anderson's close friend, Preston Gomez, at Houston.

Martin was hired by the Yankees,

Tigers Scrimmage Groveport Here

Circleville's Tigers will meet the Groveport Cruisers in a controlled scrimmage game 10 a.m. Saturday on the Red and Black's field.

There is no charge and fans are asked to sit in the stands on the press box side of the field.

CHS Girls Tennis Team Holds Tryouts

All candidates for the Circleville High School girls' tennis team should be at the high school courts from 3:30 p.m. to 5:30 p.m. Monday.

They should bring their own equipment and come dressed to play tennis.

Logan Elm Boosters To Meet Monday

Logan Elm Boosters Club will meet 8 p.m. Monday at the high school.

Roger Egan, president, urges all members and fans to attend as plans will be made for the coming season.

Virdon by Houston and Berra is going as an assistant to the Yanks.

Four of the five managers hired to replace those fired have been fired elsewhere: Whitey Herzog to Kansas City formerly in Texas; Frank Lucchessi, Texas, formerly at Philadelphia and Virdon and Martin.

"A guy like Gene Mauch-of Montreal is under .500 but he's been around for 16 years," said Anderson. He'll always have a job if he wants one."

Anderson said that for some teams, the manager is very important.

Geiberger Scrambles To TPC Lead

FORT WORTH, Tex. (AP) — "It was," smiled Al Geiberger, "sort of a funny round." Not funny ha, ha. Funny weird.

He missed greens, visited bunkers, romped through the wilderness, muffed short putts, explored the "boondocks" and shot a remarkable four-under-par 66 Thursday.

He tamed Colonial's terrors with birdies on four of his five closing holes and seized the first round lead in the $250,000 Tournament Players Golf Championship.

"I was very lucky," he grinned.

The lanky sharpshooter speared an 18-foot putt at the last hole to sweep past Jack Nicklaus, Hale Irwin and Bob Dickson in the race for the $50,000 grand prize.

That trio was in at 67.

Nicklaus, the defending champion, finished dramatically four hours before Geiberger and held the lead alone most of the sultry, serene afternoon.

Big Jack knifed through the par 35-35-70 Colonial course like a killer shark, slashing four shots from par through 16 flawless holes.

He squandered a bit of glory in a jungle at the 17th hole, taking a double bogey six, then struck back with a near eagle at the 434-yard 18th green for a sparkling 67.

"I played a fine round of golf," said

Nicklaus somewhat quizzically. "I really did."

Irwin, playing with Geiberger and Arnold Palmer, also committed but one major miscue, and it cost him a share of the lead. He was four under par at the time.

"I tried to play smart golf by hitting a three wood off the tee at No. 6 but I smarted it right into the left rough," he confessed. It cost him a bogey.

Dickson, admittedly floundering about in "quite an off year," said he entered the first round totally without confidence but that his game suddenly and somewhat mysteriously crystallized.

"I was playing with Lale Douglass

and Dave Stockton and they said they've never seen me swing so smoothly," Dickson said.

A stroke back at 68 were Buddy Allin, Jim Weichers and Mike Wynn. The game's superstars meanwhile drifted back in the pack as the 100-plus temperatures heavy rough and Colonial's deceptive charms commanded a harsh toll.

Palmer and Gary Player remained in contention with one-over-par 71s, Billy Casper and British Open champ Tom Watson were at 73, and the 75 list included Lee Trevino and Tom Weiskopf.

Johnny Miller withdrew with a sore wrist.

Dick Plummer Takes Lead In Ohio Open

MIDDLETOWN, Ohio (AP) — Dick Plummer pulled off two near miracle shots in three holes Thursday for the Ohio Open golf lead.

The Cincinnati professional sank a 60-foot nine iron shot for a spectacular eagle three on the nine hole.

Two holes later, his six-iron approach landed six inches from the cup to salvage a par. Such shotmaking helped the 1973 Ohio Open winner carve out a five-under-par 67.

Plummer, 41, broke into a big grin when asked about his eagle.

"I was just trying to chip close. The hole got in the way of the ball. You can sure save a lot of strokes that way," said the Camargo Country Club pro.

"At 11 I had a terrible drive into some bushes. I had to play backwards on my second shot. Then I hit the six iron like this," said Plummer, holding his hands six inches apart.

Plummer was a scant shot ahead of new pro Todd Crandall of Ashtabula, but predicted, "I'll be in if I shoot three 72s, it would win."

Plummer's wild round included five birdies and two bogeys. Crandall was much more consistent with his four birds and 14 pars.

Al Holbert Goes After Race Victory

LEXINGTON, Ohio (AP) — Al Holbert is on the threshold of his greatest auto racing payday, $26,700, if he can win the six-hour endurance race for grand touring cars Sunday at Mid-Ohio.

The 28-year-old Warrington, Pa., foreign car dealer has earned the pole position because he won a GT race at Mid-Ohio in June. He drives a Porsche Carrera.

In a bid for another triumph over the twisting 2.4-mile road course, Holbert has chosen as his codriver Elliott Forbes-Robinson of La Crescenta, Calif.

"Because of the money and prestige involved," said Holbert, "there is nothing more important right now than preparing our Porsche to its utmost capabilities."

Carson Baird, 36, a Laurel, Md., race car builder, will start from the pole in Saturday's companion six-hour endurance test for racing stock sedans. Baird has selected Charlie Kemp, 37-year-old veteran from Jackson, Miss., to help drive his Dodge Colt. Baird gained the No. 1 spot because of his June victory in another MidOhio endurance event.

The top 10 finishers in those June races were guaranteed the top starting positions in this weekend's grid.

Birds Finally Top Rangers, 4-2

By BRUCE LOWITT

AP Sports Writer

By the time Baltimore got around to winning the ballgame, it was too late for Jim Palmer.

The Orioles' ace right-hander, gunning to become the major leagues' first 20-game winner this year, gunned down Texas in masterful fashion for 12 innings Thursday night.

But it took Baltimore two more innings to pull out a 4-2 victory.

In the rest of the American League, Oakland beat Milwaukee 5-2, Cleveland defeated Kansas City 7-3 and Chicago edged New York 2-1. In the lone National League game, Chicago shut out Los Angeles 7-0.

"Those were the two best pitchers in the league out there," Baltimore's Brooks Robinson said of Palmer and Gaylord Perry. Both Palmer and Perry allowed two runs and struck out six batters in their stints — but while Palmer allowed only five hits in 12 innings, Perry was bounced around for 13 hits in his 11 innings.

Still, a tie is a tie and nobody's a winner until somebody breaks it. Robinson did that in the 14th with a double off Steve Foucault after Tim Nordbrook had walked. Then Robinson came home with an insurance run on Ellie Hendricks' single. The victory shaved Boston's AL East lead over the Orioles to 6½ games.

"Perry wasn't sharp but he still kept us away from the plate," Robinson said. "Palmer? He's been unreal. It's a shame he didn't get No. 20."

A's 5, Brewers 2

Jim Holt drove in two runs and scored two to lead Oakland past Milwaukee, a victory that handed the Brewers their sixth straight defeat and enabled the A's to widen their AL West lead over Kansas City to 6½ games.

Indians 7, Royals 3

Frank Robinson noted that Jackie Brown had been 4-0 against Kansas City last year when he'd pitched for Texas. So he started Brown against the Royals and was rewarded with a victory and a route-going performance.

Homers by Oscar Gamble and

White Sox 2, Yankees 1

Jerry Hairston's tie-breaking single for the White Sox in the ninth inning gave Jim Kaat his 18th victory of the year and handed the Yankees their fifth straight defeat.

Deron Johnson singled with one away and moved to second on Bill Melton's two-out infield hit before scoring on Hairston's single to center. Kaat needed last-out help from Rich Gossage, who chalked up his 19th save.

Cubs 7, Dodgers 0

Rick and Paul Reuschel of the Cubs combined for the first shutout by two brothers in modern baseball history by teaming for a six-hitter against Los Angeles. Rick Monday's two-run homer and Jose Cardenal's two-run double paced Chicago's attack.

Rick pitched the first 6 1-3 innings before a blister on his right hand forced him out and brought Paul in. "I was just trying to get them out," said Paul. "I just didn't want to lose it for him."

Browns Remain A Question Mark

KENT, Ohio (AP) — The Cleveland Browns are a question mark and no one knows it better than new coach Forrest Gregg.

The former Green Bay Packer all-pro offensive tackle has taken the reins of a club which in 1974 had its first losing season since 1956, finishing last in the American Conference's tough Central Division with a 4-10 record.

"We've got our work cut out for us," Gregg said when he was named as the fourth head coach in the history of the Cleveland franchise.

Now, four weeks into the preseason with a 1-1 record, Gregg knows even better what he faces.

"We've got to have improvement in nearly every area," he explained with a grave smile. I'd say we've come along pretty well and we have progressed some in the areas where we need it the most.

"Overall, we're pretty well on schedule," Gregg added.

Asked what areas he felt needed the most improvement, Gregg said, "I'd rather not get specific right now, but I'd say we've got to score more points and we've got to get better performance from the defense and the special teams, particularly the kicking teams."

Bengals Offense 'One Bright Spot'

WILMINGTON, Ohio (AP)— Cincinnati quarterback Ken Anderson calls the offensive line "the one bright spot" in camp this season as the team faced its annual roughing up exhibition game at the hands of the Green Bay Packers.

Anderson will be depending largely on that offensive line in view of the Green Bay pass rush that blew Cincinnati out of the game in the final minutes 26-24 last year.

Anderson finally got on track last week when the Bengals beat the Buffalo Bills after dropping preseason contests to Miami and Washington.

"To me," said Anderson after the victory over Buffalo, "the highlight of the game was the way our offensive line played. It really had great charge. On the running plays it seemed we were always operating on their side of the line."

"The one bright spot of training camp so far has been the offensive line."

"But we can't look back, we've got to look ahead. We've got Green Bay next Saturday and we've got to get better each week."

The exhibition games with the Packers since 1971 ironically have affected Cincinnati's efforts in the regular season because of the injuries the Bengals have suffered.

The Bengals lost safety Ken Dyer in 1971. He suffered a broken neck in a collision with running back John Brockington and never played again.

The 1973 game cost Cincinnati quarterback Virgil Carter a broken collar bone, running back Doug Dressler a knee injury and receiver Charley Joiner cracked ribs. Joiner, however, was able to return late in the season.

Last season, defensive tackle Mike Reid suffered a knee injury but missed only the opening game with Cleveland. Reid retired this year.

Cincinnati did not lose a player in the 1972 game, however.

Cincinnati and Green Bay are even

The Browns defense ranked 23rd among the 26 teams in the National Football League last season. But the addition of several rookies and maturation of some of the team's young veterans could turn it around.

Defensive tackles Jerry Sherk and Walter Johnson, middle linebacker Bob Babich and strong safety Van Green, all veterans, give the Browns proved strength up the middle.

And defensive line coach Dick Modzelewski is sold on rookie defensive ends Mack Mitchell and Stan Lewis. Mitchell is 6-foot-7½, 250-pounds and Lewis 6-4, 246 pounds and both could earn starting positions.

Rookie linebacker Dick Ambrose and first-year cornerback Tony Peters also could work their way into starting roles, giving the Browns a big boost.

On offense, the Browns failed to move the ball consistently last season either on the ground or in the air. But Gregg is counting on a bevy of young running backs and receivers and the settling of Mike Phipps or young Brian Sipes at quarterback to remedy that.

Phipps, a five-year veteran from Purdue, has the starting job but is being pushed by third-year man Sipes. Both have strong accurate arms and will have the likes of veteran tight end

Logan Elm Girls Set Conditioning For Volleyball

LL Major Stars Edge McDermott

Circleville Little League Major All-Stars edged McDermott of Portsmouth, 8-7, in the loser's bracket of the Chillicothe tournament.

The win pits Circleville against Picketon 2 p.m. Saturday at Chillicothe. The Circleville Stars will play at 8 p.m. today in the loser's bracket of the Ashville tournament.

Jerry Ogan, Brian Davis and Jack Heeter teamed up to hurl the victory.

Brad Fisher belted a double and single for Circleville, Jerry Ogan rapped two singles, Brian Davis, Tim Woods, Jim Snyder and Bob Steele each had a single while Fred Styers slammed a double.

Princeton's football team plays the same nine teams the Tigers met in 1974.

Oilers Have Good Potential In '75

HUNTSVILLE, Tex. (AP) — Houston Oilers Coach-General Manager O. A. "Bum" Phillips must feel more like a salesman than coach of a National Football League team. Last season as Oilers defensive coordinator, Phillips had to sell former Coach Sid Gillman on the idea that his three-man front defense would work. Then he had to sell his skeptical players on the idea, including defensive end Elvin Bethea and middle guard Curley Culp. After a 7-7 finish in 1974, Phillips reaped quite a bonus for his selling job. But now Phillips is back selling again, this season as head coach, and he thinks what the Oilers started last season under Gillman can continue under the new administration. "There's not a position on this team that I don't feel good about," the burr-headed Phillips says. "That doesn't mean we don't have problems but I like our potential." Houston's greatest potential seems to be defense, which repeatedly picked up a sagging offense last season and helped the Oilers become the biggest turnaround team of the year. Acquisition of middle guard Curley Culp from Kansas City solidified Houston's defensive front along with ends Tody Smith and Elvin Bethea. The strong inside linebacking of Steve Kiner and Gregg Bingham should be even better this season. Phillips successfully made his point about defense last year and he's now proving his point about training camp tactics. The Oilers reported to camp three weeks later than under Gillman and did not hold a full scrimmage prior to their first exhibition game, a 13-7 victory over New Orleans.

"I think we can teach more in small groups," Phillips said. "We're here to learn anyway and get ready for the regular season." Houston's offensive hopes this season once again hinge on development of a solid running game and finding a big running back. Injuries and miscues last season held Oilers rushers to an average of 97 yards per game. Phillips opened the preseason with Vic Washington and Willie Rodgers as his running backs but a healthy Fred Willis, out most of last season, and the development of rookie No. 1 draft choice Don Hardeman of Texas A&M could beef up the running game. The Oilers have a strong one-two punch at quarterback with Dan Pastorini and Lynn Dickey. Dickey engineered Houston's winning touchdown drive against New Orleans. Houston has an impressive crop of receivers including Jerry LeVias, who is returning to the Oilers from San Diego, Ken Burrough, who led the team with 36 receptions last year, Billy Parks and Billy Johnson, also a kick return specialist. Like any good former Marine, Phillips is looking for a few good men in his depth-shy secondary. After the starting group of Willie Alexander and Zeke Moore at the corners and safeties Al Johnson and Bob Atkins, the Oilers are untested.

Lou Graham began the 1975 U.S. Open with a three-over-par 74. He was seven strokes back after the first round, yet tied for first place and won the playoff with a 71.

New York Jets Beef Up Line

HEMPSTEAD, N.Y. (AP) — Joe Namath is under contract once again. All's right with the world. Or is it? After all, in 1974 the New York Jets' charismatic quarterback eluded the injuries that had dogged him in previous seasons and the National Football League team still wound up with a mediocre 7-7 record thanks only to a sixgame winning streak. The Jets, whose hallmark for so many years was protecting Namath in the passing pocket at all costs, seemed to run into linemen who had exactly the same idea when it came to their own quarterbacks. On an unnerving number of occasions, the opposition passers had all the time in the world to stand back, find an open receiver and unload a back-breaking bomb. As a result, the Jets wound up 24th in the 26-team league in total defense and 23rd in passing defense. With that in mind, three of the Jets' top four choices in the annual college draft were for defensive stars. The first choice and fourth, in fact, were not choices at all. They were trades. New York gave its No. 1 pick to New Orleans and, in return, received defensive end Billy Newsome, rated as one of the league's top pass rushers, the Saints' most valuable player in 1973 and their defensive captain that year and last. And No. 4 went to Baltimore for end Jim Bailey. The third choice was used to pick up linebacker Richard Wood, the first three-time AllAmerican in the history of the University of Southern California. The No. 2 pick didn't work out so well. The Jets went for a glamour name, running back Anthony Davis of the Southern Cal — and Davis wound up signing with Southern California of

Season On Doves May Still Be Near

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Ohio's prospective mourning dove hunters shouldn't erase that circle around Sept. 1 the Department of Natural Resources says it's still the opening of the state's first season. "So far, nothing has been rescinded," Richard Francis, assistant law enforcement supervisor in the department's Division of Wildlife, said Thursday, adding that a firm decision will be made before Aug. 25 when the order establishing the season is to become effective.

Coal Smoke Winner In Scioto Feature

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Coal Smoke stormed from behind in the stretch to take the $14,707 Ohio Sire Stakes Thursday night at Scioto Downs. The winner, the second choice, trailed favorite Excellent Tad up to the stretch in the one mile trot before bolting ahead to win by three quarters of a length. Foolish Pleasure is the third Florida-bred to win the Kentucky Derby. The others were Needles and Carry Back, both foaled in Ocala.

the World Football League. But the Jets have a pair of solid running backs in John Riggins and Emerson Boozer, who rushed for 680 and 563 yards respectively last year when they each sat out games with injuries. Behind them are Mike Adamle, Hank Bjorklund, Jazz Jackson and, from Houston, Bob Gresham. Namath, when he's healthy and not throwing interceptions — he threw 22 of them last year to go with his 20 touchdown passes — has a wealth of receivers headed by Jerome Barkum, Richard Caster, David Knight and Eddie Bell. The key to the Jets' success will be in the trenches and in the defensive secondary. Tackles Robert Woods and Winston Hill, guards Randy Rasmussen and Gary Puetz and center Wayne Mulligan anchor the offensive line. Newsome, Bailey or Ed Galigher, Carl Barzilauskas and Richard Neal will lead the defensive line charges, backed up by linebackers Godwin Turk—succeeding the retired Ralph Baker—Jamie Rivers and Rich Lewis at the linebacker spots, with John Ebersole and rookie Wood in reserve. Delles Howell, Rich Sowell, Roscoe Word and Earle Thomas will be contending for the cornerback slots and Burgess Owens, Phil Wise and Steve Tannen will be dueling for the two starting safety jobs.

Horse Protection

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Agriculture Department, responding to comments from the show horse industry and humane organizations, has made major changes in its regulations under the Horse Protection Act. Dr. Lois Hinson, chief staff veterinarian for horse protection at USDA, said Thursday that one major change, effective immediately, is that all weight and size limits have been removed on bell boots for horses, which may be used if they don't sore the animals' feet. "The weight of the boot is no longer a reason in itself to cause a violation," the official said. "The fact that a horse is sore constitutes a violation, regardless of the weight or type of device it wears." Another significant change, USDA said, is a prohibition of any substance in pre-show inspection on a horse's leg above the hoof and below the fetlock.

Houston's offensive hopes this season once again hinge on development of a solid running game and finding a big running back. Injuries and miscues last season held Oilers rushers to an average of 97 yards per game.

Phillips opened the preseason with Vic Washington and Willie Rodgers as his running backs but a healthy Fred Willis, out most of last season, and the development of rookie No. 1 draft choice Don Hardeman of Texas A&M could beef up the running game.

The Oilers have a strong one-two punch at quarterback with Dan Pastorini and Lynn Dickey. Dickey engineered Houston's winning touchdown drive against New Orleans.

Houston has an impressive crop of receivers including Jerry LeVias, who is returning to the Oilers from San Diego, Ken Burrough, who led the team with 36 receptions last year, Billy Parks and Billy Johnson, also a kick return specialist.

Like any good former Marine, Phillips is looking for a few good men in his depth-shy secondary. After the starting group of Willie Alexander and Zeke Moore at the corners and safeties Al Johnson and Bob Atkins, the Oilers are untested.

Lou Graham began the 1975 U.S. Open with a three-over-par 74. He was seven strokes back after the first round, yet tied for first place and won the playoff with a 71.

HEMPSTEAD, N.Y. (AP) — Joe Namath is under contract once again. All's right with the world.

Or is it? After all, in 1974 the New York Jets' charismatic quarterback eluded the injuries that had dogged him in previous seasons and the National Football League team still wound up with a mediocre 7-7 record thanks only to a sixgame winning streak.

The Jets, whose hallmark for so many years was protecting Namath in the passing pocket at all costs, seemed to run into linemen who had exactly the same idea when it came to their own quarterbacks. On an unnerving number of occasions, the opposition passers had all the time in the world to stand back, find an open receiver and unload a back-breaking bomb.

As a result, the Jets wound up 24th in the 26-team league in total defense and 23rd in passing defense.

With that in mind, three of the Jets' top four choices in the annual college draft were for defensive stars. The first choice and fourth, in fact, were not choices at all. They were trades.

New York gave its No. 1 pick to New Orleans and, in return, received defensive end Billy Newsome, rated as one of the league's top pass rushers, the Saints' most valuable player in 1973 and their defensive captain that year and last. And No. 4 went to Baltimore for end Jim Bailey.

The third choice was used to pick up linebacker Richard Wood, the first three-time All-American in the history of the University of Southern California.

The No. 2 pick didn't work out so well. The Jets went for a glamour name, running back Anthony Davis of the Southern Cal — and Davis wound up signing with Southern California of COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Ohio's prospective mourning dove hunters shouldn't erase that circle around Sept. 1 the Department of Natural Resources says it's still the opening of the state's first season.

Horse Protection

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Agriculture Department, responding to comments from the show horse industry and humane organizations, has made major changes in its regulations under the Horse Protection Act.

Dr. Lois Hinson, chief staff veterinarian for horse protection at USDA, said Thursday that one major change, effective immediately, is that all weight and size limits have been removed on bell boots for horses, which may be used if they don't sore the animals' feet.

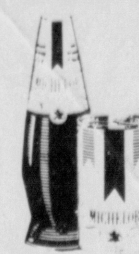

"The weight of the boot is no longer a reason in itself to cause a violation," the official said. "The fact that a horse is sore constitutes a violation, regardless of the weight or type of device it wears."

Another significant change, USDA said, is a prohibition of any substance in pre-show inspection on a horse's leg above the hoof and below the fetlock.

See Boost In Poultry Production

WASHINGTON (AP) — Both prices and production of poultry, eggs, turkeys and broiler chickens are expected to continue rising through early autumn, the Agriculture Department estimates.

The Outlook and Situation Board said Thursday in its regular report on the poultry and egg business that turkey, broiler and even egg producers now are around the break-even point with profitability back for many.

The spring zoom in red meat prices "helped to boost broiler prices to their highest levels since the abnormally high prices of the summer of 1973," the board said.

In a nine-city survey of broiler prices, it added, the average in July was 51 cents a pound, 15 cents greater than a year before.

But the peak occurred with the red-meat peak in the first week of last month and, by last week, broiler prices were averaging 50 cents, with a seasonal decline expected some time in the fall.

But the continued low rate of pork production that has kept total meat supplies smaller than a year ago should moderate that decline for broilers to keep the price near last year's levels, the board said.

On the supply side, the prospects are for continued larger marketings of broilers well into 1976, the board said.

Although the coming higher grain prices will cut into the profitability for all aspects of the poultry-production business, the board said prices for turkey should stay strong because production still is running well below 1974 levels.

central Plains through the Ohio Valley. There were thunderstorms along the Gulf and Atlantic Coasts and some shower activity in other regions.

Typical summertime temperatures were recorded in much of the nation. While it remained hot in the Plains, it was a little cooler in New England, the upper Mississippi Valley and in Arizona. It was cooler also on the northern Pacific Coast and in the northern Rockies.

Showers and thundershowers extended from the northern Atlantic Coast into the Ohio Valley. Another weather front brought showers from Washington to Montana.

Elsewhere, skies were clear or partly cloudy.

There were some heavy thunderstorms Thursday evening from New England across the Great Lakes and into the northern Plains. Other storms hit the northern Rockies, the intermountain region and the Gulf Coast area.

A heavy thunderstorm with gusty, damaging winds pounded Chicago and northeastern Illinois late Thursday night, toppling trees, flooding roadways and causing numerous power failures.

An Iowa woman died in a houseboat which capsized on Lake Pepin, and units of the Minnesota National Guard were stationed at Lake City overnight to prevent looting. Winds in the area were clocked at 80 miles per hour.

Farther west, in South Dakota, heavy rain was reported, and flash flood watch continued for parts of central and southern Idaho.

Overnight temperatures in the 50s continued in Maine and in the Pacific Northwest. Forty degree temperatures chilled parts of Nevada, while 80s were reported over portions of Kansas and Nebraska and southern Florida.

Temperatures around the nation early today ranged from 88 at Phoenix, Ariz., and Needles, Calif., to 45 at Ely, Nev.

Mother Kills Sons With Overdose

SAN RAFAEL, Calif. (AP) — Police say a widow charged with giving her two teen-age sons fatal overdoses of barbiturates tried to kill them and herself the same way four years ago.

Gloria Beale Ladd, 48, pleaded innocent and innocent by reason of insanity in Marin County Superior Court this week to charges of killing her sons, John, 19, and James, 18. The young men were found dead in their beds by a neighbor last Saturday.

Mrs. Ladd, a former school teacher and unemployed real estate agent, is being held in the county jail pending a preliminary hearing.

"This is a very tragic situation," San Rafael Homicide Inspector Bart Stinson said in an interview Thursday. "She tried to do the same thing in 1971 and was put in a psychiatric facility for several months."

"No charges ever were brought — it was felt likely she would plead insanity and the boys certainly didn't want any prosecution. The hospital released her when they felt she was no longer dangerous."

He said police records from the nearby town of Ross, where the Ladds then lived, showed that on April 3, 1971, officers went to the family home after a neighbor had found Mrs. Ladd unconscious and the boys barely conscious.

The boys recovered quickly, but Mrs. Ladd was in a coma three days and then spent several months in the psychiatric unit at a local hospital, Stinson said. During that time the boys stayed with a neighbor.

Stinson said in both incidents Mrs. Ladd told her sons the sedatives were medication that would ward off disease.

Mrs. Ladd's sister-in-law, Terry Beale of Novato, recalled that at a family gathering last July 4 she praised her sons as "the best any mother could have."

"She said they were both bright, didn't drink or use narcotics, believed in God, never swore," she said.

Mrs. Beale said that about a year ago, Mrs. Ladd had herself voluntarily committed to Napa State Hospital and had been under psychiatric treatment since. She said Mrs. Ladd had suffered from periodic bouts of severe depression since her scientist husband was killed 16 years ago while working on the Polaris missile at Cape Canaveral, Fla.

Upchurch To Exhibit At Muskingum

An exhibit of the works of Wendell M. Upchurch, a newly appointed member of the art department faculty at Muskingum College, will be held next month in the Montgomery Hall gallery on the campus.

The artist will be introduced at a reception to be held in the gallery from 2 to 4:30 p.m. Aug. 31. Refreshments will be served.

The exhibit, which will continue through Sept. 28, is the first of the season at Muskingum. It will consist of oils, acrylics, pastels and water colors, representing a broad approach from the standpoint of subject matter.

Upchurch comes to Muskingum with the rank of assistant professor. He is a native of Kentucky where he graduated from Morehead State University. He attended graduate school at Bowling Green State University in Ohio, where he earned the master of arts and master of fine arts degrees.

He taught two years at Union College in Kentucky, and last year at Marietta College. At Muskingum, he will teach studio and art education courses.

Professor Upchurch and his wife, the former Coral Ann Steck of Williamsport, have taken up residence at 17 West Main Street in New Concord.

Bugging Charges Hurting GOP?

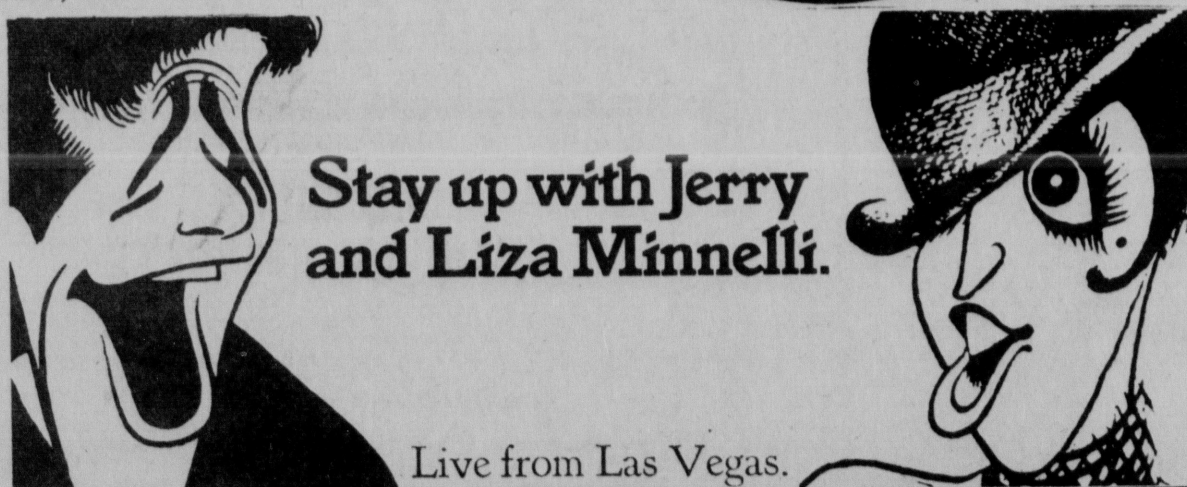

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — Recent allegations of bugging incidents against Democrats is hurting Republicans who were just beginning to overcome the taint of Watergate, says Gov. Otis R. Bowen.

Some Republicans have reason to believe their offices have been tampered with, Bowen said Thursday in taping his weekly Report from the Statehouse television program.

"I can assure you," Bowen said, "that I had no knowledge of this (bugging of Democrats)."

Bowen also said Hoosiers face a shortage of natural gas this winter. The state no longer has authority to allocate what little natural gas is available, he said adding, "This is going to be a real tough problem, especially if we have a bad winter."

Rock Creek Man Wins $300,000

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP)—A self-described family man who enjoys Little League baseball, Howard H. Mead of Rock Creek, won this week's $300,000 top prize in Thursday's Ohio lottery drawing.

Mead, 50, said he will spend some of his money to pay bills for repairs on his house which was partly burned last year.

The winner is a service manager for a car dealership in Geneva, Ashtabula County. He has 10 stepchildren and three children of his own.

The $60,000 prize was won by Ruth Honegger of Lima and the $30,000 prize went to Toy Mitchell of Columbus.

Five $15,000 winners also were named: Robin Emig of West Lafayette; James Russell of Akron; Thomas Russell of Cincinnati; Harry J. Jones of Middletown and Rosemary and Joe Glovitch, who shared their ticket, of Mentor.

Pension Payments Ordered

ST. PAUL, Minn. (AP) — Two former Minnesota manufacturing firms have been assessed nearly $19.4 million by the Minnesota labor commissioner to cover pensions of the companies' employees.

White Motor Corp. has been assessed $19.2 million and Allied Structural Steel Co. $185,751.

Commissioner E.I. Malone, who is charged with enforcing the Minnesota Pension Act, said Wednesday that the firms can request a hearing. If no such request is made, the assessment must be paid within 60 days.

Spokesmen for White Motor, which has its headquarters in Cleveland, and Allied Steel, located in Hammond, Ind., could not be reached for comment Wednesday. However, both companies have filed suits in U.S. District Court challenging the constitutionality of the pension act.

In May 1974, White Motor terminated a pension plan that covered about 1,300 employees at its Minneapolis Moline plants in Minneapolis and Hopkins.

Allied terminated its industrial construction division in Bloomington in July 1974, said Malone, and about 13 employees lost the accrued pension benefits they had earned.

Retirees' benefits under the terminated pension plan at White are expected to run out early next year.

The amount assessed is intended to protect pension benefits that were lost or forfeited by the terminations, Malone said.

Governor's Walls Bare Again

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—The walls of the Statehouse cabinet room, once graced by paintings worth up to $10,000, are bare these days.

They await replacements for those paintings loaned to Gov. James A. Rhodes by the Ohio Arts Council from galleries around the state. The paintings have been repossessed because the attorney general ruled the council could not buy insurance to cover loss of the paintings.

"We won't be able to hang any up again until Brown changes his opinion or the legislature passes a law enabling us to purchase insurance," said John Briley, assistant director of the council.

Atty. Gen. William J. Brown told the council several months ago that state agencies are prohibited from buying liability insurance, Briley said.

The antiinsurance law exists because the state insures itself, but Briley said the arts council, which has a $1 million budget, can't afford to take a chance that a valuable painting would be stolen or damaged, and the council then be sued by the owner of the painting.

Briley said that $50,000 worth of insurance coverage cost the council only $688 last year.

The 17 paintings in Rhodes' complex on the first floor of the Statehouse were taken off the walls and returned to galleries two weeks ago during an office renovation.

The value of the works ranged from $150 for a painting named "I Met Them at their Door" to two $10,000 paintings.

One of the $10,000 works depicts an Ohio family standing around a battlefield camp during the Civil War. It is entitled "The Fighting McCooks."

hood in Cleveland during the 1920s. Its title is "The Pie Wagon."

The paintings have hung in the governor's office suite for about three years.

"It's not only the money," said Chan Cochran, a spokesman for the governor. "Some of the paintings have historical significance."

Grim statistics from the Governor's Committee on Employment of the Handicapped:

Ohio has an estimated 25,000 citizens confined to wheelchairs, and a paraplegic population growing at the rate of five a week from accidents alone.

Sen. Harry Meshe, D-33 Youngstown, a member of the committee, said 400,000 Ohioans require some sort of mobility assistance. He cited figures showing that 800,000 gave limited endurance due to lung and circulatory problems, along with other anemias and chronic ailments.

The Youngstown lawmaker sponsored a new state law requiring municipalities and townships throughout the state to include ramped curbs for wheelchairs in all future street construction.

Approved by the Senate and pending in the House is another Meshe bill that prohibits discrimination against the state's handicapped citizens, including employment if the person is otherwise qualified to do a job.

The initials C.R.P., which became known as CREEP and took on notoriety when it came to stand for shenanigans that accompanied former President Nixon's 1972 election campaign, have come to life again in Ohio.

Gov. James A. Rhodes designated the group that filed signatures to place his four economic proposals on the November ballot as the Committee to Represent the Petitioners.

A newsmen in the Statehouse jibed: "CREEP is alive and well in the Statehouse."

Rep. Charles F. Kurfess, R-83 Perrysburg, one of two Republicans named by Rhodes to serve on the bipartisan, fourmember committee, failed to see any humor in the jibe. He called the remark sick and sadistic.

Rock Creek Man Wins $300,000

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP)—A self-described family man who enjoys Little League baseball, Howard H. Mead of Rock Creek, won this week's $300,000 top prize in Thursday's Ohio lottery drawing.

Mead, 50, said he will spend some of his money to pay bills for repairs on his house which was partly burned last year.

The winner is a service manager for a car dealership in Geneva, Ashtabula County. He has 10 stepchildren and three children of his own.

The $60,000 prize was won by Ruth Honegger of Lima and the $30,000 prize went to Toy Mitchell of Columbus.

Five $15,000 winners also were named: Robin Emig of West Lafayette; James Russell of Akron; Thomas Russell of Cincinnati; Harry J. Jones of Middletown and Rosemary and Joe Glovitch, who shared their ticket, of Mentor.

Pension Payments Ordered

ST. PAUL, Minn. (AP) — Two former Minnesota manufacturing firms have been assessed nearly $19.4 million by the Minnesota labor commissioner to cover pensions of the companies' employees.

White Motor Corp. has been assessed $19.2 million and Allied Structural Steel Co. $185,751.

Commissioner E.I. Malone, who is charged with enforcing the Minnesota Pension Act, said Wednesday that the firms can request a hearing. If no such request is made, the assessment must be paid within 60 days.

Spokesmen for White Motor, which has its headquarters in Cleveland, and Allied Steel, located in Hammond, Ind., could not be reached for comment Wednesday. However, both companies have filed suits in U.S. District Court challenging the constitutionality of the pension act.

In May 1974, White Motor terminated a pension plan that covered about 1,300 employees at its Minneapolis Moline plants in Minneapolis and Hopkins.

Allied terminated its industrial construction division in Bloomington in July 1974, said Malone, and about 13 employees lost the accrued pension benefits they had earned.

Retirees' benefits under the terminated pension plan at White are expected to run out early next year.

The amount assessed is intended to protect pension benefits that were lost or forfeited by the terminations, Malone said.

Governor's Walls Bare Again

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—The walls of the Statehouse cabinet room, once graced by paintings worth up to $10,000, are bare these days.

They await replacements for those paintings loaned to Gov. James A. Rhodes by the Ohio Arts Council from galleries around the state. The paintings have been repossessed because the attorney general ruled the council could not buy insurance to cover loss of the paintings.

"We won't be able to hang any up again until Brown changes his opinion or the legislature passes a law enabling us to purchase insurance," said John Briley, assistant director of the council.

Atty. Gen. William J. Brown told the council several months ago that state agencies are prohibited from buying liability insurance, Briley said.

The antiinsurance law exists because the state insures itself, but Briley said the arts council, which has a $1 million budget, can't afford to take a chance that a valuable painting would be stolen or damaged, and the council then be sued by the owner of the painting.

Briley said that $50,000 worth of insurance coverage cost the council only $688 last year.

The 17 paintings in Rhodes' complex on the first floor of the Statehouse were taken off the walls and returned to galleries two weeks ago during an office renovation.

The value of the works ranged from $150 for a painting named "I Met Them at their Door" to two $10,000 paintings.

One of the $10,000 works depicts an Ohio family standing around a battlefield camp during the Civil War. It is entitled "The Fighting McCooks."

borhood in Cleveland during the 1920s. Its title is "The Pie Wagon."

The paintings have hung in the governor's office suite for about three years.

"It's not only the money," said Chan Cochran, a spokesman for the governor. "Some of the paintings have historical significance."

Grim statistics from the Governor's Committee on Employment of the Handicapped:

Ohio has an estimated 25,000 citizens confined to wheelchairs, and a paraplegic population growing at the rate of five a week from accidents alone.

Sen. Harry Meshel, D-33 Youngstown, a member of the committee, said 400,000 Ohioans require some sort of mobility assistance. He cited figures showing that 800,000 gave limited endurance due to lung and circulatory problems, along with other anemias and chronic ailments.

The Youngstown lawmaker sponsored a new state law requiring municipalities and townships throughout the state to include ramped curbs for wheelchairs in all future street construction.

Approved by the Senate and pending in the House is another Meshel bill that prohibits discrimination against the state's handicapped citizens, including employment if the person is otherwise qualified to do a job.

The initials C.R.P., which became known as CREEP and took on notoriety when it came to stand for shenanigans that accompanied former President Nixon's 1972 election campaign, have come to life again in Ohio.

Gov. James A. Rhodes designated the group that filed signatures to place his four economic proposals on the November ballot as the Committee to Represent the Petitioners.

A newsmen in the Statehouse jibed: "CREEP is alive and well in the Statehouse."

Rep. Charles F. Kurfess, R-83 Perrysburg, one of two Republicans named by Rhodes to serve on the bipartisan, four-member committee, failed to see any humor in the jibe. He called the remark sick and sadistic.

FOR SATURDAY
ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 20): You will find the "little" things rewarding now. Don't look for the spectacular. Be satisfied with even small gains.

TAURUS (Apr. 21 to May 21): A new outlook will help you to improve relations with family, friends. Insight may come through your highly intuitive faculties; more flexibility through the erasure of past concepts.

GEMINI (May 22 to June 21): A day in which to get away from routine. New scenes, new people, new activities could spark a brand new interest in your life, make it more stimulating.

CANCER (June 22 to July 23): Do not become frustrated over possible delays or disappointments. With your innate intelligence and ingenuity, you can change undesirable situations.

LEO (July 24 to Aug. 23): Fine solar influences! With initiative and enterprise, more than usual can be achieved. Day will definitely respond to imagination, aggressiveness.

VIRGO (Aug. 24 to Sept. 23): A day for listening well and voicing well-considered opinions. Take stock of why certain maneuvers and tactics did not succeed in the past and avoid them now.

LIBRA (Sept. 24 to Oct. 23): Emphasize: dependability, referral to others' ideas, building a store of usable data, facts. Avoid: making decisions without reflection, overoptimism.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24 to Nov. 22): You may be too volatile, displaying nervousness and anxiety. This is not like the REAL you. Give yourself a pep talk and get in there and pitch — with your usual self-confidence.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23 to Dec. 21): Resoluteness and determination will put this day in the winning column. Weed out certain undesirable attachments, practices, methods.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20): Everyday matters may give most concern. Employ "tried and true" methods in areas where you must act but have little to go on for reference. Your staying power will aid you.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19): Where your intuition strongly dictates, first make sure, but then DO act, and deliberately, in your innately well-disposed manner. Your artistry under splendid influences.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20): You can have what you want if you work carefully and with consideration for others. Neither attack nor retreat, but go forth calmly and you WILL achieve.

YOU BORN TODAY, as a Leo-Virgo cusp (one born at the change of Signs), possess many of the traits of both, which makes you a most interesting individual. You have the typical reserve of the Virgoan; are not as dynamic and expressive as the average Leoite but, on the other hand, are far more practical than your Leo brother. You could be a tremendous success in the business and financial worlds; also in real estate and manufacturing. Your inventive powers are unmistakable, and you may have outstanding talent along musical lines. As with the true Leoite, you are extremely versatile and could succeed as a writer, lawyer, physician or scientist — in fact, almost any field where your interests lead you. Views On Television

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The new television season doesn't begin officially until Sept. 7, but CBS is getting a head start by premiering a new comedy series, "Big Eddie," Saturday night.

The idea is to give us a chance to catch the program now—Saturday 8-8:30 p.m. EDT—before the crunch of new shows starts.

Not a bad idea. Except in this case, it's no favor they're doing us.

"Big Eddie," starring Sheldon Leonard, would be disappointing even if it was funny, which it isn't.

At a time when many television comedies are breaking new ground—for TV, at least—in dealing with topics that reflect the times, it's a drag to see a plot centered on the hero's whiplash injury.

It has all the reality, topicality and bite of one of those 1950s situation comedies that always seemed to hang on such critical issues as whether Mom would have dinner ready by the time Dad got home.

The show's central character is Eddie Smith, a tough guy with a soft heart. He runs a civic arena, The Big E, with his brother and the jive-talking son of an old Army buddy.

At home are his wife, Honey, an ex-showgirl, the 8-year-old granddaughter he is raising and a male housekeeper whose nickname is Bang-Bang because he was born on the Fourth of July.

In the first episode, a magazine reporter visits Eddie's home to interview him, but finds Eddie in the middle of treatment for his injured neck.

So while he's waiting he conveniently is beset by other members of the cast who fill in him — and the audience — on themselves and Big Eddie. Finally Eddie emerges and reveals how he got the whiplash. End of show.

Where does it say a TV show has to have reality, topicality and bite? Nowhere, it's true. If those considerations were mandatory criteria for television, most shows would never get on.

But it does say somewhere that comedy has to have laughs, and "Big Eddie" doesn't. The jokes are tired and punchless, matched in blandness only by the performances of the actors delivering them.

Older viewers may remember Leonard from the scores of movie and radio roles he played during the 1940s, always unmistakable with his Mae West style of talking.

This is the first acting role Leonard has had in many years. He turned to producing and directing in the '50s and '60s and became one of the most successful in television.

We won't make the comment that he ought to go back to the other side of the camera. Maybe the series will improve. First episodes are difficult to pull off well because the writers and producers must figure out a way to involve all the characters and introduce as much information about them and their relationships as possible.

Views On Television

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The new television season doesn't begin officially until Sept. 7, but CBS is getting a head start by premiering a new comedy series, "Big Eddie," Saturday night.

The idea is to give us a chance to catch the program now—Saturday 8-8:30 p.m. EDT—before the crunch of new shows starts.

Not a bad idea. Except in this case, it's no favor they're doing us.

"Big Eddie," starring Sheldon Leonard, would be disappointing even if it was funny, which it isn't.

At a time when many television comedies are breaking new ground—for TV, at least—in dealing with topics that reflect the times, it's a drag to see a plot centered on the hero's whiplash injury.

It has all the reality, topicality and bite of one of those 1950s situation comedies that always seemed to hang on such critical issues as whether Mom would have dinner ready by the time Dad got home.

The show's central character is Eddie Smith, a tough guy with a soft heart. He runs a civic arena, The Big E, with his brother and the jive-talking son of an old Army buddy.

At home are his wife, Honey, an ex-showgirl, the 8-year-old granddaughter he is raising and a male housekeeper whose nickname is Bang-Bang because he was born on the Fourth of July.

In the first episode, a magazine reporter visits Eddie's home to interview him, but finds Eddie in the middle of treatment for his injured neck.

So while he's waiting he conveniently is beset by other members of the cast who fill in him — and the audience — on themselves and Big Eddie. Finally Eddie emerges and reveals how he got the whiplash. End of show.

Where does it say a TV show has to have reality, topicality and bite? Nowhere, it's true. If those considerations were mandatory criteria for television, most shows would never get on.

But it does say somewhere that comedy has to have laughs, and "Big Eddie" doesn't. The jokes are tired and punchless, matched in blandness only by the performances of the actors delivering them.

Older viewers may remember Leonard from the scores of movie and radio roles he played during the 1940s, always unmistakable with his Mae West style of talking.

This is the first acting role Leonard has had in many years. He turned to producing and directing in the '50s and '60s and became one of the most successful in television.

We won't make the comment that he ought to go back to the other side of the camera. Maybe the series will improve. First episodes are difficult to pull off well because the writers and producers must figure out a way to involve all the characters and introduce as much information about them and their relationships as possible.

Indiana Man Wins Grand Am Handicap

VANDALIA, Ohio (AP) — Once again the tradition that the unknowns win the big handicaps at Grand American trapshooting tournaments was borne out Thursday in the Preliminary Handicap.

When the field of 2,928 had completed the regular 100 targets and two men finished a shoot-off, the winner was Mike Seitz of Lawrenceburg, Ind.

His story was the usual: a new shooter, having taken up the sport 10 months ago and visiting his first Grand American Tournament, Seitz, an insurance agent shooting from 23 yards, broke 99 of 100 to tie another newcomer, Bernard Merwald of Omaha, Neb., who broke 99 from 21 yards.

Seitz in the shoot-off had 24 to 22 for his opponent.

After it was all over all the new champion could think to say was, "This is very exciting."

Another shooter, also visiting his first Grand American, Charlie Bettine, a machinist from Hazelton, Pa., also had a 99 from 24 yards, but he was eliminated on a technical disqualification before the shoot-off started.

"I have shot only 900 handicap targets in three years, but I was told when I entered that I had a permanent card and could shoot from 245 yards," Bettine said.

The handicap committee, however, ruled that he should have been a "penalty" shooter and shooting from 25 yards. Under the rules they were right in their decision and Bettine's score was negated.

Finishing behind the two leaders with scores of 98 and shoot-off victories were Stanley Toporek of Lackawanna, N.Y., third, James Spurlock of Stratford, Texas, fourth, Roland Richards of Chesserland, Ohio, fifth, Fred Ogden of Covington, Ky., sixth, and Robert Woods of Fairfield, Ohio, seventh.

Winning the women's championship was Mary Boehm of Petersburg, Ill., with a 96 from 184

Woman Mountie Enjoys Her Work

CHICAGO (AP) — Gillian McLaughlin has been kicked by a horse named Safeguard and ribbed by coworkers for sometimes looking like a man. But she says being Chicago's first mounted policewoman has its advantages, too.

"It's a close-knit bunch and there is no horsing around," said the 26-year-old trainee. "I like the Smokey Bear hat, riding breeches and the rest of the same uniform worn by the men."

Bobbies Seek Tough New Laws

LONDON (AP) — Britain's police are calling for tougher laws to combat a "frightening" increase in crime.

"Society is beginning to accept law-breaking as a way of life," said Sgt. Leslie Male, chairman of the Police Federation which represents 100,000 policemen. "Public reaction is, 'But what can be done?' What can be done is for the laws of this country to be changed and to beat the criminal and punish him more severely."

The federation said in a statement that more than 2 million crimes are now being recorded in Britain annually, an eightfold increase in the last 35 years. It said more criminals now use guns and more police officers are being attacked than ever before.

"Last year one in 10 police officers was assaulted and the trend is increasing," the statement said. "If police officers are assaulted at this rate, what does the future hold for the average member of society?"

The federation called for more policemen, more prisons, more jail sentences instead of fines, more powers for magistrates and a new law making parents responsible for their children's misdeeds.

Kidnapping Charge Filed

NEW YORK (AP) — City fireman Mel Patrick Lynch confessed that he kidnaped whisky heir Samuel Bronfman 2nd and picked up a $2.3 million ransom from the victim's multimillionaire father, an FBI affidavit alleges.

Unsealed Thursday by U.S. Atty. Paul Curran, the affidavit, one of four, also says Lynch admitted writing the ransom demand last June and then loaning the typewriter on which it was written to the daughter of his codefendant, Dominic Byrne.

Meanwhile, a source close to the Bronfman family said the 21-year-old victim, who was held in Lynch's Brooklyn apartment for nine days, did not promise to help Byrne.

Peter E. De Blasio, Byrne's lawyer, previously claimed the kidnaped heir shook hands with Byrne following his release Sunday and promised to aid him.

According to the source, young Bronfman recalled that there was "some minor courtesy for him" by Byrne and that he replied, "Thanks lots. I won't forget it."

Gasoline Hike Near

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Gulf Oil Corp. says gasoline prices could go up as much as seven cents a gallon with the end of federal crude oil price controls.

But the firm said Thursday it will not take "undue advantage" of the situation and will delay passing increases on to customers for as long as possible.

"This industry of ours has an unprecedented chance to demonstrate to the consuming public that it can act responsibly, and hopefully regain their confidence and respect," Gulf President James Lee told reporters. "There will be no profiteering."

At the present time, petroleum prices are restrained by the federal Emergency Petroleum Allocation Act, which expires at the end of the month. President Ford has said he will veto any extension of the act, and Lee said he does not expect Congress to override the veto.

Administration officials have said removal of controls will mean a 3 to 4 cent per gallon price increase.

Rate Increases To Follow Bill?

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — Representatives of five major electric utilities said Thursday if a proposed consumers bill of rights is enacted they would have to seek additional rate increases.

They testified at a Public Service Commission hearing.

A spokesman for Northern Indiana Public Service Co. said it would have to charge customers 66 cents a month just to cover costs of the regulations being considered by the PSC.

A spokesman for Southern Indiana Gas and Electric Co. said it would charge 35 cents a month.

Consumer advocates said the money would be well spent and actually would save customers money in the long run.

The 135-pound brunette spent nine months in a squad car before volunteering for mounted duty. She says that since then, she's had her ups and downs.

"I hope to graduate soon, but I got behind when I was out three weeks with a shoulder injury. I fell under a horse named Safeguard and got kicked," said Miss McLaughlin.

When she finishes training, Miss McLaughlin, who used to take lessons in riding hunters and jumpers, will join 27 men on mounted patrol.

"With my hair done up under my hat I've been mistaken for a man when I'm out riding and that's brought some ribbing," she said.

Being a mountie means dealing with horses as well as people, she said.

"We have 22 horses, and although we all may have favorites, we ride the one that is assigned to us. So we have to put up with a lot of different temperaments of the horses."

"The main thing is to keep the horse calm and under control because there are pressure situations — breaking up crowds, handling traffic and the such. And a horse may get bumped. Some motorists think the horses are raised in front of buses," she said.

Then there's the more personal side to the job.

"Most of my dates are enthusiastic about me becoming a police mountie," she said. "I don't seek their approval, though. They either can accept it or not."

Ashville Jaycees Honored

The Ashville Jaycees were honored by the Ohio Jaycees at their All-State meeting held this past weekend at Kent State University in Kent.

Lloyd Davidson, president, was presented the coveted Blue Chip Award for the Ashville Jaycees for 1974-1975 at the Saturday evening banquet. This award is presented to only the top 30 per cent chapters in the state which have demonstrated excellence in the areas of chapter management and internal programming. The award was presented by Wendell Richardson, chairman of the board for the Ohio Jaycees. The keynote speaker for the evening banquet was Johnnie Aycock, National Jaycee vice-president from Alabama.

The two emphasis areas for the All-State meeting were chapter growth and leadership training. Seminars and programming information in the areas of public relations, bicentennial, mental health — Mental Retardation, Americanism, community health, were made available to the local chapters throughout Ohio.

Police Strike Settled; More Predicted

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Police and firemen were back on the job today after Mayor Joseph L. Alioto invoked emergency powers and granted their salary demands, stunning the city's board of supervisors.

Strikers began reporting for work Thursday night only hours after the supervisors rejected a strike settlement. Alioto ignored the supervisors, suspended the city charter and ordered a 13 per cent wage increase, twice what the supervisors wanted to grant.

"All the pickets are removed," the mayor said. "Everyone is back to work even earlier than we anticipated."

The mayor's action ended a four-day-old police walkout. Firemen joined the strike Wednesday.

during early morning negotiations between Alioto and strike leaders, was approved overwhelmingly by members of the Police Officers Association and Fire Fighters Local 798.

The supervisors, who administer San Francisco's combined city-county government, turned the agreement down in a 9 to 0 vote. They complained that Alioto was usurping the board's power and pushing through an agreement the city could not afford. The supervisors normally set salaries for all city employees.

"It's a sad day for San Francisco when its mayor becomes the first dictator in the United States," said Supervisor John Barbagelata.

The mayor's emergency proclamation said settlement of the strike was "of paramount importance to the preservation of the lives, property and welfare of the citizens of San Francisco."

The agreement will provide police and firemen with a symbolic 6.5 per cent pay hike for the single day of July 1, 1975. Wages will then remain at present levels until Oct. 15, when a 13.05 per cent salary increase will be granted for the rest of the fiscal year.

Alioto said the settlement would cost the city $9.6 million — $2.6 million more than the original offer. But he said wages saved during the strike and other money-saving steps would reduce the difference to zero.

Currently, pay for police and fire fighters ranges from $16,044 for rookies to $25,944 for captains.

City Atty. Thomas O'Connor said the city charter gives the mayor power to "do whatever he may deem necessary for the purpose of meeting the emergency."

O'Connor said a 1944 court ruling stipulated that salary setting for public employees was among those emergency powers.

Most of the city's 1,935 policemen and 1,700 firemen took part in the strike.

Edward J. Kiernan, once a New York City policeman and now head of the 180,000-member association of police unions, said in an interview Thursday that there may be numerous police strikes in the future unless some sort of federal law is approved to allow collective bargaining by public employees.

"At one time, the policeman was fed a steady diet of professionalism,"

Kiernan said. "It was no more than paternalism, really. We found out over the years that the politicians won't take care of you."

Kiernan, who says he keeps tabs on police labor problems all over the country, predicts that more and more policemen will be moving toward acceptance of the police union concept and that "this action in San Francisco is going to give a lot of people something to think about."

The ICPA represents police groups in every major United States city with a population of more than 500,000, including San Francisco, Kiernan said.

Kiernan said policemen, who are sworn to uphold the law, may find trouble with their own emotions when it comes time to join an illegal union, take part in a walkout or disobey a court that is ordering them back to work.

But he said police frustration over what policemen see as leniency with criminal offenders may make it somewhat easier to break the law technically.

"The way the courts have been handing down decisions today, it's not really based on legalities any more," he said. "It's based on emotions and like that. It's hard to lay a lot of faith in the judicial system when you find out it's only used harshly against you."

As more policemen realize this and that politicians who determine police salaries "are going to turn around and kick your teeth in," threats of strikes within police departments will rise, he said.

Kiernan said. "It was no more than paternalism, really. We found out over the years that the politicians won't take care of you."

Kiernan, who says he keeps tabs on police labor problems all over the country, predicts that more and more policemen will be moving toward acceptance of the police union concept and that "this action in San Francisco is going to give a lot of people something to think about."

The ICPA represents police groups in every major United States city with a population of more than 500,000, including San Francisco, Kiernan said.

Kiernan said policemen, who are sworn to uphold the law, may find trouble with their own emotions when it comes time to join an illegal union, take part in a walkout or disobey a court that is ordering them back to work.

But he said police frustration over what policemen see as leniency with criminal offenders may make it somewhat easier to break the law technically.

"The way the courts have been handing down decisions today, it's not really based on legalities any more," he said. "It's based on emotions and like that. It's hard to lay a lot of faith in the judicial system when you find out it's only used harshly against you."

As more policemen realize this and that politicians who determine police salaries "are going to turn around and kick your teeth in," threats of strikes within police departments will rise, he said.
